SPEED TRIAL OF KIDNAP-KILLER

Girl Drowns In Fall Through Ice at Lexington

CHILD MEETS DEATH PLAYING ON FARM POND

Body Recovered by Father 15 Minutes After Tragedy; Was Alone at Time.

RESUSCITATION FAILS

Weather Had Made Ice Thin; Pulmotor Used For Hour In Effort to Revive Victim.

Falling through the ice on a pond at her parents' home northwest of Lexington Saturday night, Lois Ann Robinson, eight-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Robinson, drowned. Her body was recovered 15 minutes later by her father.

Although Coroner Hugh Winbigler was not called to examine the child's body, he said today that a drowning verdict would be returned. He said he would base his decision on information obtained from Dr. W. H. Buker of Bellville and John S. Jones, Mansfield funeral director, who worked for more than an hour with a pulmotor in an attempt to revive the child.

One of Three Children.

The girl, one of three children in the Robinson family, had gone to the barn with her father about 6 p. m. and then went to play at the pond. Missing her in about 15 minutes, the father went in search of the child and found her body under the ice. He waded into the water, pulled the body from under the ice and carried it to the house.

Although the water in the pond was not deep, it was over the girl's head, the parents said, and children had been warned to stay off the ice because the recent warm weather had made it dangerously thin.

The tragedy occurred at the Cockley farm two miles northwest of Lexington where the Robinsons had lived as tenants for several year.

Funeral Tuesday.

The child's body was removed to the A. A. Shafer funeral home in Bellville where funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Tuesday, with Rev. Glenn M. Sauder of Lexington officiating. Burial will be in the Bellville cemetery.

Born at Bellville in 1929, the victim is survived by her parents, two brothers, Eugene and Donald, at home, and three grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John Robinson and Mrs. Alla Steele, all of Bellville.

'SPRING' OVER

Snow and Much Colder, Says Forecast For Tonight.

The "spring" weather of the last two days was too good to be true, so you oughtn't to feel bad, you Mansfielders, at the news that it's all over. At least, the weatherman says it is.

After a bright Sunday, during which the mercury rose to 47, equalling Saturday's high mark, Monday rode in a bit gustily and to the accompaniment of rain. But the mercury rose to 53 at noon, and temperatures were far above normal.

But the forecast says that's all over. There'll be rain changing to snow tonight, with much colder weather. And Tuesday will be much colder, too, though it is scheduled to be fair.

JURY TO REPORT

Indictments Expected In Death of Ohio Patrolman

CADIZ — (U.P.) — The Harrison county grand jury's report on its investigation into the slaying of State Highway Patrolman George Conn near Freeport, O, last Sept. 28, was expected to be made today by Prosecutor F. L. Orum. Four men are held in Conn's death.

The grand jury met in special session last Friday and Saturday. Orum would not say whether expected indictments had been returned.

FLOODS FEARED

Arkansas Streams Rise; Early Crops Face Destruction.

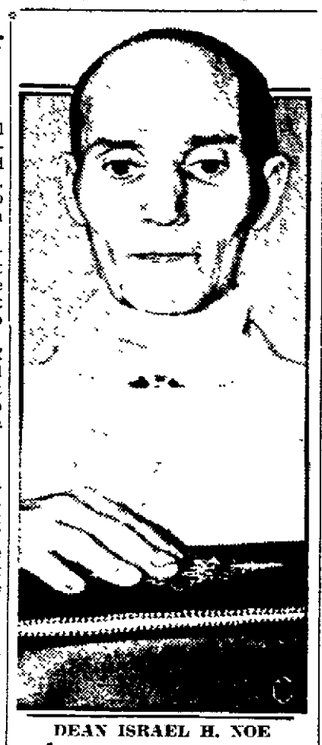
LITTLE ROCK, Ark.—(AP)—Widespread property damage appeared imminent in south and central Arkansas today as rains swelled rivers, bayous and creeks.

The principal threat was the raging Ouachita, four feet over its flood stage of 26 feet and with a crest of 40 feet predicted.

Agricultural experts said the high water would ruin much early planting.

Physicians Feed Fasting Dean Following Collapse

22 Days Without Food or Water Leave Southern Pastor In Semi-Coma.



DEAN ISRAEL H. NOE

MEMPHIS, Tenn.—(AP)—Israel Harding Noe's fight to win immortality by fasting was changed to a fight to save his life today, with physicians resorting to forced feeding to restore strength to his wasted body.

The doctors said they considered his condition "grave" but not hopeless after 22 days of absolute abstinence from food, and that three months might be required to restore him physically.

The 47-year-old ousted dean of St. Mary's Episcopal cathedral was rushed to the hospital last night after he had fallen into what physicians described as a "deep sleep."

Protests Forced Feeding.

Hal Buchanan, attorney and a member of the cathedral chapter, visited the former dean last night and said he talked "intelligently" but expressed opposition to the forced feeding that ended the long fast by which he sought to prove immortality was possible on earth.

Sunday morning he slipped quietly into the cathedral where, from an inconspicuous third row pew, he heard another man, Rev. Royden Keith Yerkes of the University of the South, Sewanee, assail religious "vagaries" from the pulpit he occupied for more than 17 years.

Bishop James M. Maxon assailed these same "vagaries" Thursday when he removed Mr. Noe as dean of the cathedral in a proclamation urging him to abandon his fast and return to his "normal self."

"We shall hear more of these vagaries as time goes on," the frail clergyman replied by radio Saturday night. "If we have a

REED APPROVED BY COMMITTEE

Senate Confirmation of New Court Appointee Expected Within Week.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The senate judiciary committee unanimously approved today the nomination of Stanley F. Reed to the supreme court.

The president's second supreme court nomination was quickly approved at a brief executive session of the committee attended by only about half of its members.

Members said no objections to the nominee, now solicitor general, were made, the subcommittee's favorable report, also unanimous, was ordered forwarded to the senate.

Reed is expected to be confirmed in time for him to take his post as associate justice when the court convenes a week from today.

Reed, 53-year-old Kentuckian, will succeed Justice Sutherland who served his last day on the court a week ago, retiring after 15 years on the high bench.

'PEEPING TOMS' SOUGHT IN CITY

Police Called by Residents Who See Men at Windows.

Police were called twice over the week-end to search for "Peeping Toms" who disturbed families in different sections of the city. Alva C. Heffelfinger, 100 Marion avenue, called for police when a man climbed up to look in the bathroom window of his home.

Investigation showed the man had taken a chair from a nearby porch, placed it under the window and then had torn four bricks out of the walk to pile on the chair, in order to reach the window.

A second call came from 596 Bowman street, where members of the family saw a man looking in the window.

SAFETY DIRECTOR DIES

MASSILLON—(AP)—Charles F. Snyder, 53, Massillon safety-service director, died today in City hospital after a stroke last Tuesday at his office.

PROTEST BOOST

Steel Firms Object To Ore Freight Rate Increase.

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)— Several steel companies today filed with the interstate commerce commission objections to any rail freight rate increase on iron ore.

Lead by Weirton Steel company, Weirton, W. Va., the concerns admitted the carriers' need for more revenues, but asserted that iron ore already bears more than a fair portion of transportation charges, and should be exempted from a rate increase.

WAR OR PEACE?

A. F. of L. Council Meets to Map Action on CIO.

MIAMI, Fla.—(AP)—The question of the American Federation of Labor's attitude toward the rival Committee for Industrial Organization — war or peace — dominated the calendar of the federation's executive council as it went into closed conferences today.

The attitude would be expressed in a vote to expel formally the unions that have lined up with John L. Lewis' CIO or in a hark-ening to the pleas for a truce that have been heard since the break-up of recent peace negotiations in Washington.

The charters of the CIO unions were suspended a year and a half ago. The executive council has the power to expel them completely and such action probably would be followed by chartering of A. F. of L. units in the same fields and a drive to win the rank and file membership into the federation fold.

SEARCH RUINS

Probers Seek Cause of Blast at duPont Works.

DEEP WATER, N. J.—(AP)—Company investigators searched through twisted metal and blackened bricks today for the cause of an explosion that shattered a four-story unit of the duPont dye works and killed at least one workman yesterday.

Another worker was missing and the company said it had abandoned hope of finding him alive.

200 City and County Employes Eligible For Retirement Plan

Nearly 200 county and municipal employes in Mansfield and Richland county will be eligible to participate in the state public employes retirement plan which becomes operative April 15, it was estimated here today.

Set up under a new state law, the pension fund will provide for the retirement of all public officials in appointive offices at the age of 60 and before that age if the worker has served in public capacity for 36 years. The law compels members to retire at 70.

Beginning July 1, all members of the retirement system will contribute four per cent of their salaries up to $80 per year, or four per cent of $2,000, the maximum annual salary subject to the pension assessment. In addition, each member must pay $1 per year for administrative purposes.

The total cost, however, will be shared by the worker and the state and local governments, with a state fund contributing to the pensions of employes who have served before Dec. 31, 1934, and retire at the age required under the law. The member's service to the county or city need not have been continuous to permit him to share in the pension fund, provided he contributed during periods of employment.

Persons who are elected to office or who share in any other pension fund are not eligible to participate in the fund. In Mansfield, members of the police and fire departments have their own

INMATES GOING BEFORE GRAND JURORS TODAY

Special Panel Enters Second Week of Investigation at Reformatory.

RECORDS FAIL TO ARRIVE

Jury Still Awaits Findings of Other Inquiries Concerning Penal Institutions.

The special Richland county parole grand jury went into its second week of investigation today at the reformatory, and was expected to spend all of today hearing the testimony of inmates of the institution.

As the jury reconvened after having been in recess since noon Friday, the records it subpoenaed last week from Senate Clerk Dwight Matchette, of previous welfare institutiaon investigations made by Joseph N. Ackerman, former state senator, and Frazier Reams, one-time Lucas county prosecutor, had not arrived. Assistant Attorney General George Hurley, in charge of the investigation, said he had no word when they would arrive, but expected them at any time.

Three Inmates Called.

As the grand jury went into session, about 10:30 a. m., three inmates had been called to testify. Maintaining the usual grand jury secrecy, required by law, Hurley would not reveal the names of the inmates he had summoned, although he said he expected to bring four or five before the jurors today.

It was reliably learned however, that among the five inmates called were some whose parole applications had been continued for long periods of time by the parole board.

May Develop Leads.

It was thought that from possible grievances that these inmates might bare, the grand jury might be able to develop leads for investigation along different angles concerning the parole board, inasmuch as charges that paroles in Ohio could be "bought" brought on the investigation, which opened in Columbus with a special grand jury investigation there.

Among the reformatory inmates expected to be questioned are Naceb Simon of Youngstown, and Clyde Harouff of Akron, whose parents, according to testimony given the Columbus grand jury, communicated with Arch W. (Stub) Naylor, central figure in the parole inquiry, concerning paroles for their sons.

SHELL EXPLODES, LOSES 3 FINGERS

Loudonville Boy, 7, Hurt While Playing at Kitchen Stove.

Donald Young, seven-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Young, R. D. 2, Loudonville, was confined to General hospital today suffering from gunshot wounds, sustained while playing in the kitchen of his home Saturday with a shotgun shell.

The youth suffered the loss of three fingers on his right hand, severe lacerations about the chest, and under the right eye, when a shell with which he was playing exploded when he held it up to the kitchen stove.

Mrs. Young, who was working in the kitchen at the time of the accident, suffered gun shot wounds in the back. The mother had her back turned, and did not see her son was playing with the shell, she said. Mrs. Young was treated at the hospital for burns.

MILTON SWORN

Takes Oath as Senator Despite Protest From Labor.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — John Milton took his oath today as senator from New Jersey, despite a protest against his seating from labor's non-partisan league.

While the new Democratic senator was signing the senate register, Vice President Garner announced that he was referring to the elections committee protests filed against Milton by the non-partisan league and others.

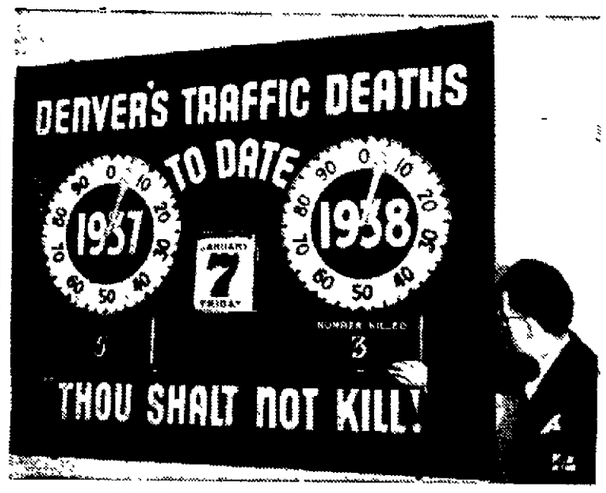
Posts 'Score' To Cut Car Toll



Judge Gilliam and His Courtroom Reminder.

DENVER —(AP)— Police Judge Philip B. Gilliam hopes to "drive home a lesson in safety" in 1938 by making every person who appears before him conscious of the deaths from traffic accidents.

Behind his bench is a huge score board captioned: "Denver's traffic deaths to date."

In the middle of the board is the date; at each side is a circle numbered from zero to 100 and in each circle is an indicator. At the bottom of the board is lettered the command: "Thou Shall Not Kill!"

One circle is labeled "1937," the other "1938." Under them are spaces showing the number of persons killed in traffic.

"The 80 deaths charged to Denver traffic during the 12 months just closed will not be duplicated if it is within the court's power to prevent them," asserted Judge Gilliam.

WILLS BRAIN TO SCIENCE, DIES

Scientist Was Pioneer in Study of Growth of Brain.

PHILADELPHIA — (U.P.) — Dr. Henry Herbert Donaldson, who willed his own brain to science as a contribution to the study to which he had devoted his life, died at his home yesterday of pneumonia, at the age of 81.

A former president of the American Neurological association, Dr. Donaldson was director of neurological research at the University of Pennsylvania's Wistar Institute of Anatomy and Biology, and a pioneer in the study of the brain's growth.

He had been actively engaged in research until 10 days ago, working with rats to determine the effect of old age on the brain.

A. P. TO MOVE

Rockefeller Center Home to Be Ready In Fall.

NEW YORK — (AP) — The future home of the Associated Press will be erected in Rockefeller Center, where general headquarters and the New York office of the world's largest co-operative news and picture gathering organization will be located in a building bearing its own name.

Construction of the Associated Press building will begin shortly as the first of the units included in the program recently announced by Rockefeller Center. The Associated Press will occupy four floors in the 15-story structure, which will be completed in the autumn.

The quarters selected provide for the immediate needs of steadily increasing scope of the Associated Press news, news photo, feature and supplemental services to more than 1,400 newspaper members.

The building site is the north block of the Center, Fiftieth and Fifty-first streets, overlooking the plaza between the Music Hall and the International building.

ROBBED AT OWN DOOR, HE SAYS

Central Avenue Resident Reports Loss of $90 in Hold-up.

Jacob Frank, 402 Central avenue, told police today that he had been held up at the rear door of his home by a masked bandit with a gun Saturday night and $90 in cash was taken from him.

Frank said a man wearing a blue handkerchief over his face was at the door when he answered a knock at 9 o'clock and demanded the money in the house. Frank said he gave the man $10, but that he was ordered to "get the rest of it," and that he turned over approximately $80 more.

Police were investigating the case today.

Asks State To Check 6 Crossings

Mayor Acts to Get Full Time Protection at Grades Here.

A list of five grade crossings that are only partially protected and one that has no protection was submitted to the state public utilities commission today by Mayor Claude M. Hunter with a request for a 24-hour traffic check similar to the one conducted last week at the Bowman street crossing of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad tracks.

In a communication to Chairman Charles Schaber of the commission, Hunter pointed out the need for full time protection at the crossings within the city, which are on heavily travelled streets. He asked for the traffic check so the commission might have figures on which to base an order to the railroads calling for full time protection.

The mayor said that he was asking the utilities commission to make the check at the crossings so that the city would not have to bear the expense. The 24-hour check last week at the B. and O. crossing was paid out of city funds, amounting to $13.50.

Makes Own Survey.

In a personal survey made by Hunter, he said he had found one five-track crossing with no protection, two that were unprotected for 12 hours, two others unprotected for six hours and one that was unprotected for seven hours.

He pointed out that the North Main street crossing of the Erie Railroad was protected only from 5:30 a. m. to 11:30 p. m. while on the same street the Baltimore and Ohio crossing was protected from 7 a. m. until 7 p. m.

At the North Diamond street crossing of the Erie railroad where two tracks cross the street, Hunter said protection was offered from 5:30 a. m. to 5:30 p. m.

The North Mulberry street crossing of the Erie and the Baltimore and Ohio railroads were protected from 5:30 a. m. until 11:30 p. m., his survey showed.

Hunter pointed out that while the Pennsylvania railroad offered

WHITE BACK IN OHIO POLITICS

Former Governor to Run For U. S. Senate Seat; Bulkley Silent on Plans.

COLUMBUS—(AP)—George White of Marietta returned today to Ohio's political front with the announcement he would be a candidate in the August primary for the Democratic nomination for United States senator.

The former governor and one-time chairman of the Democratic national committee likely will oppose Sen. Robert J. Bulkley of Cleveland, who is expected to seek re-election. Senator Bulkley said in Washington last night:

"Anybody has the right to run," but declined further comment. Asked about his probable candidacy, he answered: "My decision will be announced in due course. There is no hurry."

White said he was entering the campaign "without the backing of a machine, group or faction of the party, and no one can get me out."

He declared he was "sincerely in favor of the objectives of the New Deal."

White, who was governor from 1931 to 1935, ran third in 1934 to U. S. Sen Vic Donahey and Charles West in the senatorial primary contest. West, now under-secretary of the interior, had the backing of Bulkley, a strong supporter of President Roosevelt.

White, who is 65 and a one-time Alaska Klondike gold miner, managed the unsuccessful presidential campaign of James M. Cox of Dayton. He began his political career 33 years ago when Washington county Democrats drafted him as their state representative.

3-DAY-OLD BABY HAS OPERATION

10 Days Old Now, Infant Gains After Appendectomy.

PORTLAND, Ore. — (AP) — Speaking of operations—Jerry Lee Wiley, 10 days old today, is recovering from an appendectomy performed when he was only three days old.

The operation was performed by Dr. W. H. Bucerman last Monday.

The patient apparently was well on the road to recovery.

Dr. Bucerman said that while autopsies had revealed other cases of pre-natal infection he had found no record of a child so young having survived a surgical removal.

You Reap What You Sow, Pastor Tells Grads at Baccalaureate

In order to expect something good out of life, you must put something good into it while you are still young, Rev. Grover E. Swoyer, pastor of the First Lutheran church, told members of the January graduating class of Senior high school in his baccalaureate sermon to the class last night, and 1,200 friends and relatives who crowded the First Lutheran church for the service.

Rev. Swoyer took his text from the sixth chapter of Galatians, the seventh verse: "Be not deceived, God is not mocked, in whatsoever a man soweth that shall he also reap." His sermon subject was, "God's Arithmetic."

"Life is a field. In every life there will be a harvest. What that harvest will be depends on what each person sows in his heart and mind," Rev. Swoyer said. "God's arithmetic says that a man will not only reap what he sows, whether the crop be good or bad, he reaps more than he sows.

"Everything that has been done has been done because of seeds. For those who plant good seeds, life becomes wonderful. When you sew bad seeds, you reap bad seeds.

"Every criminal behind the bars, every derelict, and every murder comes because one one sows bad seed. Every good deed and every smile comes because of some good seed sown somewhere," Rev. Swoyer asserted. "There are mobs of dumb people

U. S. TO SEEK CHAIR DEATH FOR SEADLUND

Federal Jury Convenes Today For Probe of Kidnaping, Slaying of Ross.

BARES MORE DETAILS

FBI Chief Says 'Anders' Beat Aged Man Then Shot Him; 9 Bullets In Accomplice.

CHICAGO — (UP)—Court action by which the government will attempt to send John Henry Seadlund to the electric chair for the kidnap-slaying of Charles S. Ross may be opened today by U. S. District Attorney Michael L. Igoe.

Investigators lacked only minor links to complete their case against the 27-year-old slayer—a northwoods lumberjack who was launched on his crime career by Tommy Carroll, one-time lieutenant for the desperado, John Dillinger.

Known as 'Anders.'

That career led him through a series of bank robberies and finally to kidnapings. It ended 10 days ago when he was captured and confessed killing Ross, his elderly victim, and James Atwood Gray, his kidnap accomplice. Thursday night Seadlund, who had used the name Peter Anders, directed G-men to a snow-covered dugout near Spooner, Wis., where he had disposed of the bodies.

Attorney Igoe was en route from Washington to take personal charge of the case. He was scheduled to confer with Daniel M. Ladd, Chicago head of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, and Earl Connelly, crack FBI kidnap expert, to decide methods of procedure. Two facts obtain: To take Seadlund before U. S. Commissioner Edwin K. Walker for preliminary arraignment; to waive the arraignment and present the evidence before a federal grand jury, asking an indictment under the Lindbergh kidnap law.

The jury reconvenes today, and it was believed the Ross case would be presented immediately.

Secretary Views Killer.

It was learned Miss Florence Freihage, 55, Ross' former secretary and a witness to the kidnaping viewed the slayer but could not identify him positively. Therefore, it was believed to have been Gray who actually took Ross from her side the night of Sept. 25. Her description of the man tallied more closely with that of Gray.

At the same time, police said Ross' body had arrived in the city and had been removed to a mortuary. Private funeral services were being arranged. Gray's body

Rosamond Pinchot Found Dead, Fumes From Auto Blamed

OLD BROOKVILLE, N. Y.—(U.P.) — Clad in an evening gown and an expensive fur coat, Rosamond Pinchot, famous actress and niece of the former governor of Pennsylvania, was found dead today in her automobile in the garage of an estate she rented here.

A length of garden hose led from the exhaust pipe of the automobile through a rear window and into the body of the car. Police said the beautiful 32-year-old daughter of Amos Pinchot, widely known attorney, apparently had committed suicide by inhaling carbon monoxide fumes.

Miss Pinchot, who started her theatrical career at 19 as the nun in Max Reinhardt's production "The Miracle," drove her car into the garage on the J. H. Alexander estate late last night. The car was not taken out during the night and police believed the actress went to the garage about midnight, adjusted the hose and started the motor.

The motor had stopped when Ida Hannimen, a maid, found the body shortly after 7 a. m.

U. S. Plans Slash In Armed Forces In Shanghai Area

MARINES WILL LEAVE CHINA NEXT MONTH

Britain Also Maps Reduction; Chinese Plan New Defense For Northern Armies.

BULLETIN

SHANGHAI — (U.P.) —General Han Fu-Chu, one of China's best known military leaders and former governor of rich Shantung province, was executed tonight after a court martial ordered by Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek.

SHANGHAI—(U.P.)—United States authorities plan to reduce military forces in the Shanghai area by one-half within a month, it was reported today.

The auxiliary transport Chaumont will leave about the middle of February with the U. S. marines of the Fourth regiment.

Great Britain also is planning to reduce its Shanghai forces, it was understood. All troops here probably will be transferred elsewhere next month after the arrival of between 1,200 and 1,500 replacements, it was said.

There was little news from the fighting fronts with the exception of unofficial Chinese reports that the Chinese had recaptured Mingkwang, about 110 miles south of Hsuchow in Honan province, and also had reoccupied Lienghsuan, 20 miles southeast of Yenchow.

Form New Armies.

In Hankow, the provisional Chinese capital, high Chinese commanders conferred on the formation of new armies in Anhwei, Chekiang and other northern provinces.

They included Gen. Pang Teh-Huai, vice commander of the Eighth Route (Communist) army, and Sun Lien-Chuang, commander of the 26th route army.

The Soviet Russian embassy in Hankow was destroyed by fire, reportedly started by an explosion. It was the Fourth Soviet diplomatic office destroyed or damaged since the start of the war. The Tientsin consulate was raided during the early stages of the war and valuable papers stolen, the Shanghai consulate was damaged in fighting here and the embassy in Nanking was burned after the Japanese occupation.

In Chungking, another branch capital of the Chinese government, Soviet Ambassador Ivan Liganetz-Orelsky presented his credentials to President Lin Sen.

"I am proud to be the bearer of an important message which I wish to deliver before anything else," he said. "The Soviet has the utmost sympathy for China and wants to see the Chinese emerge victorious in the present struggle for the preservation and existence of independence."

Fear Earth Shocks Signal Eruption of Hawaiian Volcano

HONOLULU, T. H.—(U.P.)—Natives watched towering Mauna Loa on the island of Hawaii uneasily today, fearful that Saturday night's violent earth temblors presaged another eruption of that mountain, the largest active volcano in the world.

Dr. Thomas Jaggar, volcanologist at Kilauea Observatory, located the origin of the disturbance 150 miles from Mauna Loa, however, and said it had occurred below the ocean floor.

The temblors were similar to those that preceded Mauna Loa's eruption in 1935, and were the most violent recorded here in 20 years. The earth shook and rumbled and the sky seemed to flash green for 45 minutes. Every one of the eight major islands of the group was shaken. Several minor landslides occurred on the island of Maui, but the damage was described as "nominal."

The sky phenomenom was believed to have been lightning, coincidental to the temblors.

Scientists observed no unusual activity about the crater of Mauna Loa, but the natives were not easily reassured.

Duce's Son Leads Flight From Rome to Rio

Up and Down THE STREET

Dr. and Mrs. L. C. Benedict, 73 Bowman street, will leave this week on a de luxe house car trip to the southwest. The 24-foot trailer, made to order, has all of the luxuries for living on the road, including a double decker bed, complete light housekeeping equipment with electrical gadgets tucked away in odd corners. They will make a leisurely trip to Arizona where they expect to spend some time and then will go where fancy dictates. They expect to be gone about six months.

The balmy weather yesterday brought out two more "sure" signs of an early spring, according to City Patrolman Howard L. Schuck and Deputy Sheriff Glenn Freeman. There was a big marble game in progress at the Friendly House, Schuck reported, and Freeman said he saw a group of boys flying their kites down at his native Bellville. "The kids are like wild geese, you can't fool 'em," Schuck commented.

Steve Schemine, assistant to Jock Collins, professional at Westbrook country club, found the urge to return to Florida for the winter too strong. Collins, who has spent the majority of his winters golfing in Florida, decided to remain in the city this year, and Schemine, who has accompanied him to the south in recent years, decided likewise. But the latter changed his mind. He is in Florida, Collins learned by letter the other day, "and the golfing's fine," he writes. Collins is now on the verge of heading to the southland.

These new popular songs are trouble enough to keep up with thinks one Mansfield housewife, but when they put the titles in foreign languages, it's just too, too much. Witness, for example, that one entitled "Bei Mir Bist Du Schoen," that you hear about every time you tune in a dance band. Said housewife heard it a couple times, hummed the tune for a while and then tried to pick up the words—but they sounded to hear (and she sang 'em so) like this "My Dear Mr. Shane."

DEFENDS COAL COSTS TO OHIO

Purchasing Agent Says State Follows Policy to Prevent Destitution of Miners.

COLUMBUS—(AP)—The price the state of Ohio pays for coal was defended today by State Purchasing Agent Glenn Horn as in keeping with "the precedent laid down in 1928 by Gov. Vic Donahey * * * to prevent destitution among miners and bankruptcy for operators."

Horn answered in a prepared statement charges by the state senate's special investigating committee that Ohio paid $1.75 a ton, while the city of Cleveland bought its coal for 88 cents.

"The senate committee, in conformity with its custom, has taken an isolated extreme high in connection with the state and an isolated low for Cleveland," he declared.

"I am proud to say that the state of Ohio is not only now paying a pair price for coal, but for many years has followed that practice. * * * This administration is following the precedent laid down in 1928 by Gov. Vic Donahey and followed by every administration since. * * * Donahey declared that coal for state institutions should be purchased from Ohio mines and that a fair price should be paid for it in order to prevent destitution among miners and bankruptcy for operators.

"The state government under no circumstances should attempt to defeat the policies * * * and put thousands of miners on the state relief rolls."

HOUSE COMMITTEE SET TO END HEARINGS ON BUSINESS LEVIES

WASHINGTON — (U.P.) — The house ways and means committee prepared today to close its public hearings on the 1938 business tax revision program and to thrash out in private sessions an intramural fight over the proposed tax on close-held corporations.

This tax, proposed in the report of Chairman Fred M. Vinson's tax subcommittee, is the only upward revision suggested. While other recommendations would greatly relieve business of the undistributed profits burden and lighten the tax on capital gains, the so-called "1B" tax would increase rates on close-held corporations not personal holding companies.

This levy was most strenuously attacked in last week's public hearings. Numerous representatives of closely-held corporations complained that it would prevent "plowing back" of profits into the company and would unfairly penalize closely-held corporations in their competition with widely-held concerns.

Despite these charges, Vinson maintained that none of the witnesses had convinced him that the tax would be harmful. He pointed out that first of all any corporation earning less than $50,000 would be exempt; that any corporation distributing 60 per cent of its earnings in dividends likewise would escape the 1B classification; and finally that even those subject to the tax would not find it a hardship.

The tax would operate thus: A closely-held corporation falling within the clearly defined income, distribution and ownership limits would be subject to the proposed new 16 to 20 per cent undistributed benefits tax. After paying that tax, a deduction would be made of $40,000 or 30 per cent, whichever is larger, and a 20 per cent flat tax would be imposed on the remainder.

3 PLANES START LONG TRIP TO SOUTH AMERICA

Italians to Survey Course Over South Atlantic, Test New Bombing Crafts.

BULLETIN

PARIS—(U.P.)—Three Italian bombing planes flying from Rome to Rio De Janeiro radioed at 2 p. m. today that they were passing Villa Cisneros, in Rio De Oro on the northwest African coast and that all was well.

ROME—(U.P.)—Bruno Mussolini, 20-year-old son of Premier Benito Mussolini, took off with two companions in three heavily loaded bombing planes today for South America.

The three planes, Savoia 79 model bombers, left Guidonia airport on the outskirts of Rome at 7:25 a. m. (1:25 a. m. EST). The planes are identical with Italian made planes which bombed Barcelona and other Spanish costal cities last fall in behalf of the Spanish nationalists.

Purpose of the flight, aside from testing the ability of the planes, is to enable Italian aviators to study the course across the South Atlantic with the intention of esablishing a regular line between Italy and South America.

Last to Leave.

Young Mussolini was the last to take off. Col. Attilio Biseo, Premier Mussolini's personal pilot and commander of the expedition, was the first to take off. He was followed by Capt. Nin Moscatelli

Bruno's father, who earlier had been reported planning to accompany him in his own plane as far as the Straits of Messini, was not at the airport.

It was understood that Bruno had had a difficult time persuading his mother to permit him to make the flight. He glories in his father's motto, "Live dangerously," and was reported to have told friends:

"I've convinced my mother this time. She promised that she would not worry too much. We will make it."

Signora Mussolini was said to have been upset when young Bruno went off to Spain to join the nationalist air force. She later told friends that she would have prevented him embarking on the adventure if she had been in Rome. When he came back, his parents were reported to have imposed severe restrictions on his restlessness.

The flight will be made in three laps covering approximately 6,000 miles. The first lap, from Rome to Bakar, West Africa, is the most difficult The distance is about 2,700 miles of which 2,000 miles is over the Sahara Desert. The second lap is from Bakar to Natal, Brazil, and the third from Natal to Rio de Janeiro.

The Great Game of Politics

—By FRANK R. KENT

Strange Palace Politics.

AS SAID in this place the other day, the extraordinary way in which the politics of the administration has recently developed, is as confusing to many as the simultaneous White House advocacy of obviously conflicting economic policies. If there is a way of reconciling with reason what is now going on politically it would be interesting to have it presented.

For example, there is the amazing spectacle of the president, quite clearly without the approval, acquiescence or co-operation (which certainly seems essential) of his political generalissimo and close personal friend, James A. Farley, backing the New York gubernatorial aspirations of one of his radical young friends and subordinates—Robert H. Jackson. As has been pointed out, it is obvious that if Jackson should be nominated and elected governor of New York in 1938, he would have an advantage over other aspirants for the presidential nomination in 1940. This fact has greatly pained the other aspirants, some of whom are not exactly suffering in silence. What grieves them most is the inescapable nature of the conviction that Roosevelt has picked Jackson as his successor.

UPON NO other theory can they explain the situation. They know, of course, that if it were not for the Roosevelt backing, Jackson would not have a ghost of a chance for governor; and they know—because there was never anything more obvious — that where the feverish Jackson is not thickly covered with a gubernatorial rash he is all broken out with presidential bee stings As an amused observer said the other day, "He think's he's in now." It isn't necessary to tell the politicians what this all adds up to. They know and not many of them like it. For one thing, it is altogether too hand-picked to be palatable. For another, young Jackson is just a trifle "too unanimous," as they say on the eastern shore of Maryland. For another, Farley has far too many friends in the administration and out of it, in the Democratic party generally and in New York particularly, for them not to feel some resentment (not, it is fair to say, in the least fostered by him) at what seems an inexplicable explanation.

NO WORD of complaint has come from Farley and probably none will ever come He has been —and is—far more loyal to Mr. Roosevelt than all the Jacksons, Corcorans, Cohens and other Brain Trusters combined, some of whom have lost few opportunities for his disparagement. He has served the president more faithfully and done him infinitely greater good He has taken a tremendous lot of journalistic punishment with a smile, urbanely accepted blame which was not really his, built up a great political organization which only he knows how to make function fully. In other words, wholly aside from his cabinet position, Farley is an outstanding administration figure, and the idea of ignoring him on any White House political policy—particularly one connected with his own state of New York, where he still happens to be Democratic state chairman—certainly seems absurd.

YET, amazing as it seems, to some extent at least, that—or something pretty close to that—has happened in connection with the Jackson candidacy. It may be that Farley cannot afford, as his friends assert, to make the fight for or even take the governorship, much as he would like it. Perhaps the president knows that. Perhaps Farley has not been pushed aside. None the less, his closest friends know that he was not consulted about the Jackson candidacy and is not a part of the movement. It was reported that he had told Mr. Roosevelt that Jackson is "all right with me" and that he would "go along." But that happens not to be true. He has let his friends in New York politics—including other aspirants—know that he is not committed and furthermore is not going to be committed.

IT IS A curious state of affairs. That the president and his postmaster general, who is not only national chairman but state chairman, too, should not see eye to eye in as vital a political matter as the New York governorship is almost incredible. Yet, it is obvious on the surface that such is the fact—and beneath the surface it is more obvious and more interesting. Clearly, the Jackson hope is that soon or late the president will put pressure enough on Farley to swing him into line. Perhaps he can and will. And perhaps Farley, loyal though he is, just won't be swung. Stranger things have happened—and not many observers think Jackson, hot favorite of the president, and of David Dubinski, the labor leader, as it is claimed he is, can be nominated in a Democratic convention without the Farley organization. Despite the new mark of presidential esteem in making Jackson solicitor general in the place of Stanley Reed, close observers believe his candidacy has fallen a little flat. Some think it wil continue flat and that soon or late the White House interest in Jackson's candidacy will evaporate to the point where it can be asserted it never existed.

CORRECTION

IN this column the other day the statement was made that the question which prompted Mr. Roosevelt's press conference declaration against all holding companies was "planted." This was incorrect. The question was asked by Mr. Raymond P. Brandt, of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, who does not ask planted questions. It has been stated, without contradiction, in a number of papers, including the New York Times, that the president deliberately timed his declaration to appear an hour before the White House visit of the Messrs. Lamont, Lewis, Young and others. It seemed that it could not have been "timed" without previous knowledge that the subject would be brought up. However, Mr. Brandt's assurance that his was not a "planted" question is enough F. R. K.

Hollywood Speaks—

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Plenty has been written about the Lubitsch touch, the Capra magic, the DeMille flair for spectacle, the Rouben Mamoulian artistry and so on. Today's consideration, for a change, is of Bacon "salad dressing."

Lloyd Bacon, our condiment mixer, is not a director about whose "touch" the critics rave. In arty circles there is room for doubt that his name is mentioned even casually. But in the studio business office, where Art is just a nickname for a guy named Arthur, and figures are black or red but always cold, they salaam. Currently the figures are telling an interesting tale: "The Life of Emile Zola," which is art, is grossing less than "Submarine D-1," which is Bacon.

That is nothing new in pictures, of course. Bacon would be the last man to suggest that "Submarine D-1" is a better picture than "Zola." Bacon acknowledges, but not humbly, that he is a "commercial" director.

"It's safer," he says, content to let the other fellow make the prestige pictures. A prestige picture, in case you haven't heard, is one that costs a lot of money which may or may not be returned. A commercial picture can cost a lot too, but it's less of a gamble. Which brings us to Bacon "salad dressing."

"We just mix up the ingredients so there's something in the picture to appeal to all ages," he explains. 'Love, drama, action, comedy — sometimes music and dancing—and we don't slight bokum, which is always great box-office. I figure if a picture will draw the kids, it's a hit. Because the little fellows will want to go, and they'll take mama and papa. That's three tickets sold instead of one.'

Son of the late Frank Bacon of "Lightnin'" fame, the director has been through the mill of show business and movie life, first as actor, later as writer and gag man, finally as director. He stopped acting when he decided Bacon was close kin to Ham, and greying temples wouldn't handicap a man behind the camera. Also, there was something in the thought that an actor, be he ever so good, was dependent on the director for proper presentation. A director, familiar with "salad dressing," could always work out his own success.

ESTHER DUNHAM NEW PROVINCE OFFICER

Delta Theta Tau Elects Mansfield Girl to District Post: 120 Delegates From Four States Attend First Convention In City.

MISS ESTHER DUNHAM, Delta Theta chapter member and general chairman for the province convention of Delta Theta Tau, national philanthropic and social sorority, which was held here this week-end, was elected province officer at the business meeting held Saturday afternoon at the Mansfield-Leland hotel.

Approximately 120 delegates from chapters in Ohio, Kentucky, Indiana and Michigan were registered for the two-day meeting at which Mansfield Delta Theta Tau members were hostesses. This was the first province convention ever held in Mansfield.

The convention closed yesterday morning with the "progress" breakfast which was given in the hotel ballroom to the attending representatives. Tables were decorated with articles denoting the development and progress of transportation. Small objects from the covered wagon to the airplane were used. Miss Mildred Angle was toastmistress.

Silhouette Dance.

On Saturday evening more than 100 Mansfield men served as escorts at the formal silhouette dance which followed the "vanity" dinner. Jimmy Sans orchestra provided music for the dancers in the darkened ballroom. The dinner which preceded the affair was served at tables decorated charmingly with centerpieces of graduated platforms covered in white with figures of girls cut from black paper surmounting the platforms. Pencil-slim tapers flanked either side of the unusual decorations. Bowls of yellow and white garzia chrysanthemums were used on the speaker's table.

Each place was marked with a vanity bottle for perfume decorated with the gold crest of the sorority. During the dinner entertainment was furnished by Tommy McNew, tap dancer, Mildred Wappner, acrobatic dancer, and the Pival brothers' trio. Miss Betty Gustin was toastmistress and introduced the various province officers from other chapters and the guests.

During the regular business meeting it was decided to perform philanthropic work for some young woman from Marysville. This work has been selected as the province project for the coming year. Miss Dunham, Miss Faith Ione Wilkins and one member to be elected from the general assembly will take charge of this project.

Cincinnati will be hostess next winter to members of the sorority when the province convention is entertained there. The national convention will be held June 21-25 at the Claypool hotel, Indianapolis.

Welcomed by Mayor.

Miss Doris Mann, president of the Mansfield chapter, opened the business meeting, and introduced Mayor Claude M. Hunter who welcomed the visiting delegates to the city. Miss Wilkins accepted for the province.

Supervising registration which opened at 10 a. m. Saturday were Mrs. Carl Adams, Mrs. George Rowe, Mrs. Kenneth Woodman, Miss Palmer and Miss Helen Bunn. The dinner was planned and arranged by Miss Maxine Jones, Miss Virginia Leight, Miss Freeda Herring, Miss Virginia Anderson, Miss Leona Heim, Mrs. Laurence Simons, Miss Alvina Wappner, Miss Harriett Roth, Mrs. Ernest Geiger, Mrs. Harry Mehock and Mrs. Ritchie Bittinger.

Dance arrangements were made by Miss Mary Cox, Miss Thelma Reed and Miss Melva Graham. The final session, the breakfast, was planned by Mrs. Norman L. Wolfe, Miss Helen Widders, Miss Mary McClellan, Miss Marvlu Castor and Miss Genevieve Diesm. The favors were selected by Miss Mann, Mrs. I. C. Dillon and Mrs. Ross Awwiller.

Spoiled Sister Makes Life Miserable

By VIRGINIA LEE

What to do with a young woman of 17 who is lazy, insolent and altogether unmanageable? This is Discouraged's problem. The young person under discussion is her younger sister. She writes:

"My youngest sister is 17 and stubborn and lazy. When she is asked kindly to do something in the home, we get nothing but a curse and are told to do it ourselves; or else, when she decides to do it, it is not at all well done. To add to the trouble, my father simply refuses to make 'his darling' do a thing.

"When it gets late she refuses to go to bed and starts screaming like a wild man so dad will side with her. Then we—my mother, sister and I—are cursed and told very cutting things. So, Miss Lee, will you kindly tell me briefly what to do. I sincerely hope you use this same space for years to come. I and many others enjoy it."

That is a pretty tough proposition Discouraged, and it really isn't your problem, except that you and your sister are made unhappy by this young person's obstreperousness. It is your parents' difficulty, and your mother cannot do much when your dad sides with the spoiled young woman. Parents must agree to put through a certain program and stick together if it is to be effective.

This girl's training should have begun when she was a baby, of course. Now that she is almost grown up there is not much to be done. Your father probably won't realize how very disastrous his tactics are until she begins to defy and curse him. Then he will probably think your mother has spoiled his darling—at least, he will make himself think that it is all her fault.

I'm afraid the only thing you can do is to be as friendly with your sister as possible and, when she is in an amiable mood try to gain her confidence and show her, without preaching, how much pleasanter home would be if she acted like a reasonable human being instead of like a brat. There is no use scolding or "telling her what you think of her" in such a case. It only makes the matter worse.

She is probably a pretty decent kid underneath all the nonsense. Appeal to that better side of her when she is reasonable. For the rest, you will just have to endure the unpleasantness until you leave home, and hope that life will show her the error of her ways. It usually does. No young girl can be ill-tempered and lazy without suffering for it some time in her life.

SIS: Yes, there is such a thing as a "wind-blown bob," but it is not as fashionable as it once was. If I were in your place, I would ask the barber or beautician to tell me what type of hair cut would be most becoming to me. A good hair stylist studies your face and plans your cut accordingly.

Be sure to leave sufficient space between the walls of the refrigerator and the dishes on the shelves to allow a free circulation of cold air. It is the continual circulation of cold air through an electric refrigerator especially that preserves your food.

Never throw away bones left from a roast or shoulder. Put them on in cold water, and if cooked several hours a very good soup may be obtained with the addition of diced vegetables.

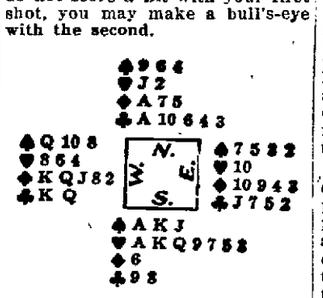
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

TWO STRINGS TO A BOW

NEVER EMPLOY a line of play which gives you only one chance to make your contract if you can find another method which furnishes you two strings to your bow. Following the one chance procedure, if it doesn't work your hopes are ended. With the double barreled method, if you do not score a hit with your first shot, you may make a bull's-eye with the second.



(Dealer: South. East-West vulnerable.)

Six hearts constituted the final contract on this deal in a recent duplicate and three different types of play were used in attempting to make that contract.

At table one the declarer won the diamond K lead with the A, drew trumps and then finessed the spade J, which lost to the Q, and later lost a club trick, so that he was down one.

At table two the declarer tried to avoid the finesse by attempting to squeeze the opponents. He accomplished this by leading all of his hearts after winning the first trick. He got West into the position where he held his three spades, diamond K and clubs K-Q and on the last trump had to let go of one of them. He let go a spade and, as East had discarded four spades, the declarer did not need the finesse, but played the A and K, establishing the J.

At table three the declarer also decided not to try the finesse if possible. He also got the West player into the same position as above, but this West tossed the diamond K. South then cashed the club A, on which West threw the K, but there was nothing for South to do but lead another in the hope that West would win. When he did, he was obliged to lead a spade into South's tenace.

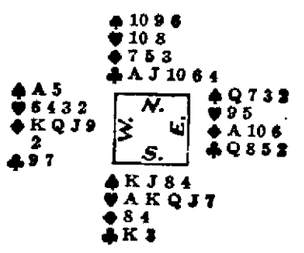
Tomorrow's Problem.



(Dealer: South. East-West vulnerable.)

With the diamond K led against South's 4-Heart contract, how should he plan the hand?

Shapely Girl Will Attract Attention

By GLADYS GLAD

"America's Most Famous Beauty."

One of our well-known movie critics recently startled his readers by calling a famous cinema siren a "well-dressed beanpole." Not a very complimentary remark, of course, but then, critics seldom are kind. However, this particular critic had logic behind his comment. Men, he claims, like women to be slender and shapely, but they don't like them to be skinny! Their idea of perfection is a woman who is slender, yet has softly-rounded contours. Scarecrows are out, so far as modern males are concerned.

Of course, any woman knows that fatness is unattractive, but she doesn't try, on this account, to go to the other extreme. She realizes, if she is wise, that skinniness is just as unattractive as obesity. And so she tries to strike a happy medium.

One of the greatest mistakes that many underweight individuals make is to refrain from exercise. They have the idea that exercising is only for the fat, and they are afraid that if they are too active they will become even thinner. Of course, this idea is entirely wrong. For exercise helps women to gain weight and acquire curves just as effectively as it does to assist heavy women in losing weight.

Must Eat Well.

Exercise makes the tissues active and healthy. When a woman who is fat exercises, her adipose tissue breaks down as her tissues become active. And when a thin woman exercises, firm muscle develops in her starved tissues.

Another reason why the underweight should exercise is that if she is on a weight gaining diet, she may acquire added poundage only on certain portions of her body. As a result, her figure will not appear properly proportioned. Proper exercise not only helps to develop the body, but also molds it upon harmonious lines.

A thin woman must eat well, to provide her body with plenty of nourishment. That doesn't mean, however, that she must stuff herself to the point of discomfort just because she wants to gain weight. If she cannot consume more food than ordinarily, she can select those that are not very bulky or filling, but are nourishing.

The thin girls can indulge in all the foods that the fat girl would like to eat, but cannot. She may have cream and sugar on her cereals and in her tea and coffee. She may have cream soups and creamed vegetables. She may drink rich milk whenever she wishes. And she may eat candies and good things like ice cream, custard, rice and tapioca pudding for desserts. But she must see to it that she keeps it well balanced, nevertheless. For unless her diet has basic foundation of fresh fruits and vegetables, it will not greatly benefit her health or add to the loveliness of her figure. And she must not neglect her exercise.

Drying.

Hilda: I would not advise you to wet your hair with water every day. The practice tends to remove the natural oil from the hair, and makes it dry and brittle.

Permanent Wave.

Hilda: A permanent wave will not harm your hair, nor change its color, providing that it is done in a reliable shop, and by an expert.

HOROSCOPE

For Tuesday, January 25.

ACCORDING TO the lunar transits, this is an excellent day for launching new enterprises following a period of stagnation. Old investments may also take a spurt, and real estate, industry, labor and commodities are under high stimuli for increased valuation. Elders may benefit, possibly through wills, trusts or insurance. It is a fortunate time for pushing all affairs with vigor.

If This Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is should be prepared for a lively year, with old as well as new matters under high stimulus. There may be definite rewards for application, industry and fidelity. This may be in the nature of trust, land insurance or another gift of sound value. It is a time for aggressive action.

A child born on this day may be energetic, vigorous, practical, responsible and steady. It may be sociable, artistic and popular.

Good croquettes are insured by making them long enough ahead for them to set before frying. Make them early in the morning if wanted for the evening meal or the afternoon before if you want them for luncheon.

To bleach handkerchiefs, towels, etc., soak them overnight in a solution of ½ teaspoon of cream of tartar to each quart of water.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

Miss Whitlock's eyes were suddenly on the defensive when I told her that Mary knew nothing as yet of the plan to have her always protected by the presence of either the nurse or myself while she was sojourning at the Hotel Lansfield during the rehearsals of my play.

"Do you mean?" she asked quietly, "that she is to remain in ignorance of the real reason for my stay with you?"

"Oh! no, indeed," I said. "That would be an impossible situation for all of us. No, I shall tell her tomorrow morning, just as soon as she is calm enough to listen. Her husband starts at daybreak to go back to his father in New Hampshire, and as she does not expect to see him again for a long time, I am afraid she will be too upset to listen to anything for an hour or two, at least. I do not anticipate needing you for her, but I may."

"I shall be ready for your call at any time, no matter whether it be day or night," she said, and then hesitated before she added. "But I must be sure of one thing before I go to New York."

"Yes?" I said encouragingly as she paused.

Wants Mary's Okay.

"I must be very sure that Mrs. Veritzen wishes to have me as a companion and a safeguard. Please don't misunderstand me! If she were ill, or — nervously broken down or anything like that where she needed a firm hand, I shouldn't hesitate a second. But to be a guardian for a perfectly sane and healthy young married woman who may resent your guardianship — you see, don't you?"

"Of course, I see," I told her truthfully, "and you may be very sure that I shall not ask you to go with us if there looks to be the slightest objection on Mary's part. But I am sure that she will be delighted to have you with her."

"In that case, I can imagine nothing more delightful than having Mrs. Veritzen for a patient," Miss Whitlock said smilingly, and on that assurance I wished her good night, and went back to the kitchen where I had bidden Katie wait for me.

The kitchen was in perfect order, and all traces of the "detecatuff correspondence school charts" had been banished. Jim and Katie were sitting in their accustomed chairs, and rose at my entrance.

Won't Need Her.

"I won't keep you a minute," I said. "I just wanted to tell you, Katie, that you needn't get up tomorrow morning to get Mr. Noel's breakfast. He is starting at daybreak, so he will have to have breakfast very early. But Miss Mary and I will manage. I shall want coffee, sugar, cream, milk, melon, bacon, eggs, bread for toast and orange juice. I think you have everything on hand. If you will squeeze the oranges and put the glass of juice in the refrigerator before you go to bed, and set the table for breakfast for three, I shan't need you at all."

Katie's lips were suddenly stubborn.

'Excoos, plees," she said, "but you talkin' troo your hat. Eet no make sense. You know vot shape Mees Mary goin' be in tomorrow morning ven her jung hoosband go far away. You haf your hands full mit her mit oudt foolin' round mit eats. Me, I kin shoost as vell get oop in morning. Eef I feel sleepy in afternoon maybe I take nap same time old vomans, let Jeem vatch und tell me ven she vake oop. Aindt dot so, Jeem? Aindt I right?"

Supports Katie.

I mentally saluted her shrewdness in appealing to Jim, for she knew I would value his opinion based on slow, stolid thought more than her volatile snap judgment. And Jim justified her appeal.

"I think Katie's right this time," he said, with unconscious unflattering emphasis on the adjective. "You'll have your hands full without cooking. Better let her get the breakfast."

"It means you'll have to get up at four o'clock," I protested weakly.

"Vot I care for dot?" Katie said grandly. "I have everything nice and feex, you see. You go on to bed and no vorry."

And with thanks on my lips and a warm feeling at my heart, I obeyed her injunction.

Gail Patrick and Fred MacMurray are installing shooting galleries in their homes . . . The rooster's crow you'll hear in Harold Lloyd's "Professor Beware," really will be the voice of Florence Gill, one of the Disney animal and fowl imitators . . . Powell at Ohio.

Dick Powell, singing favorite of the screen and radio, tops the cast of "Hollywood Hotel," at the Ohio theater. The star plays the role of a young crooner, fresh from the sticks, who decends on Hollywood full of ambitions. He runs into romance complications when he falls for a temperamental screen actress, portrayed by Lola Lane. And then into the picture steps an obscure hotel worker, who looks like the actress. Rosemary Lane plays the other girl, and she takes the place of Lola when the latter refuses to attend an "opening night" performance. The film follows Dick's rise to fame and his battle to set himself straight on romance. Others in the large cast include Hugh Herbert, Glenda Farrell, Alan Mowbray, Johnny Davis, Francis Langford and Benny Goodman and his "swing" band.

Eleanor Holm in Debut.

Eleanor Holm, who recently made the headlines throughout the country on her reported romance with Billy Rose, makes her screen debut in "Tarzan's Revenge," playing at the Madison theater. The former Olympic swimming champion is co-starred with Glenn Morris in the film version of another of Edgar Rice Burrough's famous stories. The picture revolves around the adventures of Miss Holm when she accompanies a party of Americans into the jungle in search of wild animals. How Tarzan protects the party and finally wins the girl's love, forms an interesting plot. Supporting the two are George Barbier, C. Henry Gordon and Hedda Hopper.

"Dodsworth".

Walter Huston and Ruth Chatterton are co-starred in "Dodsworth," opening at the Majestic theater, Tuesday, on the mid-week program. The film, adapted from Sinclair Lewis' best seller, brings to the screen the story of a retired American business man who takes his younger wife to Europe for a vacation. The wife meets and falls in love with a young German and demands a divorce from her crushed husband. His battle to re-arrange his life brings a surprising climax. The second feature on the twin bill will be "Dark Journey," with Conrad Veidt and Vivian Leigh. "Bulldog Drummond's Revenge," with John Howard and "Sez O'Reilly to MacNab," plays through today.

"Show Boat".

Household Hints

By MRS. MARY MORTON

Menu Hint.

Stuffed Lamb Shoulder
Buttered Carrots
Mashed Potatoes Cabbage Salad
Squash Pie Cheese

THE NUMBER of hearty meat servings which any particular cut yields is of prime importance to the housewife in planning and serving family meals. Some cuts are made more artractive and the number of servings increased by boning and stuffing with a savory dressing.

"Take for instance the lamb shoulder. If boned and rolled this cut is more easily carved, will yield a larger number of servings and is more attractive in appearance," says Inez S. Wilson, home economist. In purchasing the lamb shoulder, ask the butcher to remove the bone and sew the shoulder on two sides, thus leaving one side open for inserting the stuffing. When stuffed, sew or skewer the edges together, roast in exactly the same way as any lamb cut.

Lamb Breast Economical.

The lamb breast is another economical cut which is excellent when stuffed. A pocket for the stuffing may be cut along next to the bone, or the cut may be boned, the dressing spread on top and the breast rolled, after the fashion of a jelly roll. Veal breast may be treated in the same way, if desired.

Thin slices of beef or veal wrapped around a savory bread dressing make a favorite meat dish whenever served. These are known as beef or veal birds.

Other meat cuts which are easily stuffed are boned pork shoulder, two sections of spareribs sewed together around edges, flank steak and chops cut double thickness with a pocket in the center.

Stains on Paint.

To remove fingerprints and small stains from washable wallpaper, apply soapy water to a cloth or sponge and rub the stained area until the spots disappear. An eraser may be used on unwashable paper. It's a good idea to keep track of the papers used in each room when repapering is to be done.

If you wish to paper a wall that has been whitewashed first brush it over thoroughly with equal quantities of vinegar and water or paper will not stick.

When Is Introduction Necessary?

By EMILY POST

Dear Mrs. Post: The other day mother and my two sisters and I were sitting in the car waiting for father to come out of his office. A boy I knew slightly passed and came over to the car to talk with me. I did not introduce him to the others because I hardly thought the minute or so he would stand talking warranted such formality. My family disagrees, however, and mother in particular thinks it was very impolite. I wish you would discuss a situation like this in your column.

Answer: Under ordinary circumstances, I would say that you should have introduced him to your mother and your sisters. It is never very good form for a girl to run the risk of giving the impression that she wants to separate herself from her family. And yet there are so many girls who are eager for attention and intentionally do this. Whether you were actually rude or not I don't know because I don't know the whole picture. If you were sitting on the front seat, driving, let us say, and your mother and sisters were in the back and the window beside you was open and he only stopped to speak to you for a moment you might quite possibly and not improperly have neglected to introduce him. On the other hand, if you were sitting on the back seat next to your mother or one of your sisters, then you should certainly have introduced him to them. Moreover, since he stood for some time talking to you, you should, it seems to me, have introduced him unless, as I have already said, the windows were closed and they were quite separated from you and introducing him would have been forcing the situation.

Dear Mrs. Post: We are a club of young girls, which is giving its first party to include men. This will be a theater party and there will be twenty of us. One of the group has been assigned to buy the tickets beforehand, but what confuses us a little is who hands the tickets in on the night of the play. We probably can not all arrive exactly at the same time at the theater, and yet some of the girls think it might be rather embarrassing to the boys if each one of us takes two tickets and hands them to her escort before we leave home. What is the customary way of handling this girl-takes-boy situation?

Answer: You handle it exactly as you suggest. When he comes for you, you as a matter of course give him the two tickets intended for him and for you.

Tennis On the Table

Here Are a Few Facts 'n' Figures About Popular Winter Indoor Sport.

By OSCAR RUHL
News-Journal Sports Editor.

SOMETHING ABOUT table tennis, or, if you wish, ping pong (thanks to Gardner Soule (AP)for the information):

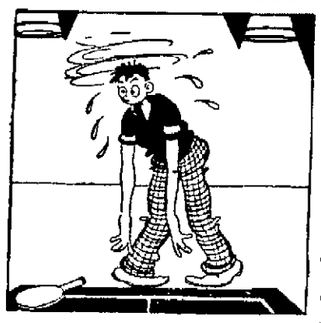
Despite the fact many persons regard table tennis as a very new game, the world table-tennis championships, scheduled Jan. 24-29 at London, have been held for 11 years. Hungary first won the Swaythling cup, emblematic of the men's team title, in 1927. And table tennis, the "new" sport, reached a popularity in 1902 that it never has equalled since.

* * *

Contrary to another widely-held belief, table tennis is strenuous exercise. In the 1935 world tournament, one rally lasted 20 minutes—20 minutes of unremitting battle for a single point! Kohn of Austria and Haguenauer of France, who staged the rally, slapped the ball over the net 1,600 times at the rate of more than one stroke a second. Men's matches frequently last two and one-half hours, and, after the age of 26, a person is considered too old for table tennis.



* * *

Ping-pong has always been colorful. One player, for instance, would roll his trousers up a little further after losing a point. At the end of a losing match he seemed to be wearing kilts. Another individual would stop in the middle of furious proceedings — to comb his hair.

* * *

Ping-pong came of age in 1932, when a Chicago court ruled it was not a children's game, since no 12-year-old could play it "scientifically or skillfully," and since it was good for reducing women's weight.

* * *

FOR A long period, Europe was ahead of America in the development of table tennis. The tip-off came in 1933 when the American champion, Mark Schussheim, went abroad. In one match, a woman player spotted him 10 points (21 points win a game), and then proceeded to trounce him thoroughly.

* * *

No record of success in international sport is comparable to that of Hungary in table tennis. Magyar players have been world champions more than 40 times.

* * *

The accuracy of Viktor Barna, the Hungarian who dominated the game for so long, was so uncanny that he could place shots all around a dime on the other side of the net and then could hit the dime squarely when he tired of fooling around.

* * *

Ping-pong developed in the 80s. At first cigar boxes were used for bats, champagne corks for balls and rows of books for nets. Laughed to death, the sport was considered a fad and, for a time, it disappeared.

* * *

In 1902 a Londoner named Good walked into a London pharmacy to get headache powder and walked out with the rubber pad on which the druggist counted his change. Good stuck the pad to his ping-pong paddle. He promptly began slapping the balls past the old man's ears and the rubber-faced bat became standard equipment.

Tygers Make Next Stop at Willard

Murphy's Men Hope to Snap Out of Slump Tuesday; Show Improved Form In Defeat Suffered In Overtime Game at Mt. Vernon.

By OSCAR RUHL, News-Journal Sports Editor.

DESPITE three defeats in a row, J. Russell Murphy, professor of basketball at Mansfield high school, is not convinced that the Tygers are incapable of playing a better brand of play than they displayed last week.

The Men of Murphy suffered their third straight setback of last week Saturday night when they bowed to a crafty Mt. Vernon aggregation, 30 to 28, in an overtime period in the Knox county capital.

Mansfield exhibited its best basketball of the week on the Mt. Vernon court, but it was not quite good enough to win over the primed Yellow Jackets, who form one of the stronger N. C. O. conference clubs this winter.

Impressed by Tygers.

Murphy, who was impressed by the showing of his athletes Saturday, believes the Tygers are due to snap out of their slump. The only game on the Mansfield schedule this week is at Willard Tuesday night, but Murphy is attempting to line up another tilt for later in the week.

Ike Smith, who shared a guard post with the limping John Hallabrin, injured in the Glenville game, and Jack Dugger played brilliantly for the Tygers in the Mt. Vernon melee.

Though failing to score, Smith handled the ball well, and it was his play which was instrumental in enabling the Tygers to make the kind of a fight that they did. Dugger scored four baskets as he turned in one of his best performances of the season.

The officiating was the sloppiest witnessed this season, but the defeat cannot be attributed directly to the inefficiency of the game handlers.

Lore Leads Jackets.

A young man by the name of Eddie Lore must be credited with supplying the spark which enabled the hosts to triumph over the tired Tygers.

After scoring three baskets in a row in the first period to stake the Jackets to a comfortable lead, Lore tallied only one other bucket during the regulation time, but he again broke loose in the overtime period.

The Tygers were forced to stage an uphill fight nearly all the way. Trailing 9-4 in the first quarter, the Murphymen, led by Dugger, outplayed the Jackets in the second period, but trailed 15-12 at the intermission.

Dugger's bucket tied the score 15-all early in the third chapter, and Lyons counted twice from the charity line to put the Tygers in front. The third stanza ended with the score tied 17-all. Mt. Vernon tallying twice from the free throw line.

The fourth quarter was nip-and-tuck. Mt. Vernon held a three-point advantage with a minute to go. Then Dugger dented the strings with a short shot, and, with a second to go, Hallabrin stepped to the foul line to convert the point which forced the game into an overtime period.

Add Winning Points.

Two baskets by Lore, one a miraculous shot from near the center of the court, and another by Trott gave the Jackets the decision in the overtime.

Elmer Dials who led the Tygers in scoring with 11 points, kept Mansfield in the running in the extra period with a pair of buckets.

The Mansfield reserves performed like champions as they trounced the Jacket substitutes, 29 to 19 in the preliminary. The junior Tygers were never pressed as they led all the way. The defeat was only the second of the season for the Mt. Vernonites who are favored to annex the N. C. O. junior title.

Rudolph was especially brilliant for the Mansfield reserves. He accounted for 15 points, stealing the ball three or four times on passes to score on dribbles.

Crowd To See Morrow Fives

800 Expected For "Feud" Tilt at Iberia Tuesday.

MT. GILEAD — The largest crowd to witness a basketball game in Morrow county is expected at Iberia, Tuesday night when Johnsville meets the undefeated Mt. Gilead team. Approximately 800 tickets have been sold.

Although the game is not a league contest and the outcome has no bearing on the county title, it has aroused considerable interest because of the circumstances which cause the game to be played at Iberia instead of at Johnsville where it was originally scheduled.

The game will be played at Iberia by an agreement reached by officials of the two schools after a controversy arose on the night the game was to have been played at Johnsville. The difficulty arose when the Mt. Gilead squad arrived at the Johnsville school and was allegedly refused immediate entrance. They refused to wait outside the building and finally returned to Mt. Gilead. The game was called off and admissions paid were refunded.

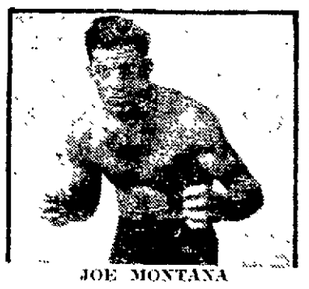
Hart, Montana Vie In Armory Tonight

Magyar, Routt to Tangle In Semi-Final Bout In Armory Ring.

FRANKIE HART of Holland will carry a sparkling record into his match with Joe Montana of Camden, at the Armory tonight. The Italian, however, has no brief with records. He may not be from Missouri, but he'll have to be shown in the ring. Matches aren't won with scrap-books, he believes.



JOE MONTANA

Montana, in addition to his wrestling activities, has enjoyed a rather unique "career." He has knocked about the world a great bit, and generally popped up where the action was hottest. He quit a job as bouncer in the Palais Royale at Buffalo to become a boxer. Despite a pair of quick victories in that sport, he forsook it for the wrestling pad.

Hart, well-known to Mansfield followers of the mat, May do well to respect the challenge of Camden's Joe Montana.

Occupying the semi-final spot on tonight's brilliant program set for action in the Armory, are Joe Magyar of Hungary and the veteran Louisville bombre, R. R. (Railroad) Routt. Routt earned his semi-final shot by defeating the Plymouth motor cop, Francis Steele, last week.

Steele is one principal of the opener and will meet Joe Wheeler, Cleveland's "Cyclone." The first match will be in the ring tonight promptly at 8:30.

Sports, Electrics Favorites Tonight

Meet Pure Oils, Canzols In City League Tilts on Senior High Floor.

THE undefeated Yuncker Sports will be out tonight to register their seventh straight City Class A basketball league victory when they clash with the hapless Mack Pure Oils in the opening tilt on the weekly program at Senior high.

Champions of the opening round, the touted Yuncker outfit, led by the veteran Tom Farrell and Al Stickler, enter tonight's melee a heavy favorite. The Oils have yet to win their first league victory.

Canzols Add Players.

In the other game, the Westinghouse Electrics, tied for first place in the second round race with the Sports, tackle the up-and-coming Ira D. Ling Canzols at 8:30.

Strengthened by the addition of three new players, the Canzols are expected to place a dangerous scoring machine into the tilt. Fred Buzard, team manager, announces that Bob De Haven, Supon and Gottfried had been added to the club's roster.

With these new players to help Johnny Schuster, Smith and Howard Patterson, the Oils should cause the Westies trouble. Vern Jones' club, which finished in third place in the opening round race, has been unable to click with regularity.

Upset Possible.

The Canzols, who in the opening round registered only one victory, will be out to win tonight and, although underdogs, an upset is possible. The Elks club will be idle tonight.

Marion Plays At Mt. Vernon

Game Has Definite Bearing on Title Race.

A game that will have a definite bearing on the outcome of the N. C. O. conference race heads this week's schedule.

It will pit Marion against Mt. Vernon on the Jackets' court. Marion moved ahead of the idle Bucyrus club in the tight race last week, with the Jackets only a game and a half behind. Bucyrus, which recently defeated Marion, was beaten by Mt. Vernon a week ago.

Ashland plays at Bucyrus and Galion performs at Shelby in the other games Friday night. Mt. Vernon is host to Newark in a non-league game Saturday.

BUTLER CAN REGAIN VAN

Bulldogs Can Jump Ahead of Ontario by Winning Twice This Week.

Coach M. L. Stearns' Butler high school cagers will be offered an opportunity to regain the Richland county league lead this week.

Trailing the front-running Ontario Warriors by a half game, Butler is host to Lucas Tuesday night and performs on the leader's court Friday.

Need Two Wins.

A victory for the Bulldogs Tuesday will enable them to tie Ontario for the top position, and another triumph on Friday will permit them to gain the post undisputed.

The only game the Butlerites have lost this season was administered by Ontario, which won on a margin provided by a basket scored by a rattled Bulldog.

In the other games on this week's sked, Madison plays at Union and Lucas performs at Lexington Friday night.

In the only county league game played Saturday, Lexington defeated Bellville, 29 to 16, at Bellville. Lexington, paced by Hugenard's 10 points, led 11 to 4 at the half.

Lexington won the prelim, 12 to 8.

Rams Bow to Shiloh.

Madison high cager dropped a 24 to 18 non-league decision to the undefeated Shiloh quintet of the Twin-Valley league. Shiloh held the lead all the way. The score at the half was 15 to 8. Bob Moser led the winners with 10 points, while Bill Wilkins tallied seven for the Rams.

The Shiloh reserves won the first game, 14 to 6.

SHOW RALLYING TENDENCIES IN SLOW MARKET

Gold Mines, Utilities Display Strength as Many Leaders Stand Still.

NEW YORK—(AP)—Gold mines and utilities displayed mild rallying tendencies in today's stock market, but many leaders stood still or fell back fractions to a point or so.

Dealings, slow at the opening, dwindled further near the second hour.

A cut in the price of export copper to just below 10 cents a pound failed to disturb metal shares.

Bonds and commodities were uneven. Foreign securities markets were mixed.

Market analysts found a moderately nopeful note in the weekly survey of the magazine "Steel."

The publication said slight improvement in demand for steel continued to manifest itself, but that orders thus far were not sufficient to cause any unsual stir among steelmakers.

The opinion was expressed that heavy buying by railroads was likely if the interstate commerce commission approves the petition for increased freight rates.

SAYS YOU REAP WHAT YOU SOW

Rev. Swoyer Addresses 1,200 at Baccalaureate Services For Graduating Class.

who sew only in the bad field. A stupid man is one you pinch in the morning and he doesn't cry ouch until night. Stupid people cry out when their evil harvests smite them at the right time of their career."

"The World war was largely the result of bad seed sown through the years. The past philosophy of the super-man caused people to believe that might made right. Then nations died as they reaped the whirlwind from sowing to the wind. Yet we have not learned any better, now all nations are arming in a mad armament race. We sow the seeds of death," he said.

"Every nation should have some defense, but when all nations forget God and begin a race for more guns, and battleships, tomorrow the whirlwind comes. We fought the World war to end wars, and then made peace to end peace, and now war seems just across the horizon.

"Every young person should corner himself and bare the facts of life. They must ask themselves if they will be half-foolish enough to sow the wrong seed and add to the world's misery and woe, and despair. Or will they throw their lives on the better side and help make life one sweet song forever.

"We trouble with life in that the bad makes the news. For every one who commits murder, we forget the millions who never murder. Our young people to my mind are the best in the history of the world, yet you do not read of the good they do and the wonderful harvest of human betterment. It takes strength, power and character to reap good things," he added.

"When you have grit and fighting spirit, you win the fight," he said in concluding.

The class, attired in caps and gowns, were seated in a body in the center of the church. The school faculty also attended the service and was seated behind the class.

"The Commencement March" was played for the processional and recessional. Special music was provided during the service by the church choir under the direction of L. A. Cook.

HOLD RITES FOR 46 FIRE VICTIMS

20 Bodies Brought to Cathedral; Only Four Identified.

ST. HYACINTHE, Quebec—(Canadian Press)—Eight black hearses rolled slowly today through snow-blanketed streets to St. Hyacinthe cathedral for pontifical requiem services in memory of the 46 victims of the Sacred Heart college fire.

Of the 20 bodies brought to the cathedral, only four had been identified. Three others, whose services were held elsewhere, had been identified.

It was believed ruins of the college still held remains of 19 boys or teaching brothers.

THIEVES ROB CRIPPLE

WOMEN WITNESS DOUBLE HANGING

Sheriff's Wife Among 100 Who Watch As Trap Opens.

FT. MADISON, Ia.—(AP)—Two women were among the 100 witnesses at the second double hanging in the history of the state of Iowa today.

Those executed were John Mercer, 29, convicted of the murder of Robert Sproat of Tipton, Ia., while fleeing from a holdup and Allen Wheaton, 21, convicted of murdering Henry Plummer, a Council Bluffs, Ia., robbery victim.

The women witnesses were Mrs. Joe Perry, wife of the sheriff of Pottawattami county who sprang the trap beneath Wheaton's feet, and Mrs. Leo P. Woolworth, wife of a Fort Dodge, official.

Neither seemed moved.

DROPS 'HOT' CAR

Thief Sees It Belongs to Fire Chief, Lets It Go.

CHICAGO—(AP)—A thief who stole an automobile from a dark garage at the home of Charles Madsen in suburban Harvey saw red when he drove the car out into the light. He quickly abandoned it when, to his surprise, he found it painted a bright red and bearing fire department insignia. Madsen is chief of the Harvey department.

BREAKFAST IN PARIS, DINNER IN N. Y. PREDICTION FOR '40

PARIS—(INS)—Breakfast in Paris and dinner in New York will be realized in 1940!

France is building two giant transatlantic airliners for such a service, the Ministry of Air announced today.

They will be six-motored Latecoere ships, 65 tons, streamlined, with de luxe accommodations for twenty passengers—equal to the luxury of any great liner.

Their cruising range will be 4,000 miles, and they will average some 215 miles per hour—even against a contrary wind estimated at 40 miles per hour—so they will take their speeding passengers from France to America or vice versa in about 14 hours!

It will be possible, just three years from now, to have a cafe au lait at the Cafe de la Paix, and, due to the five hours' difference in time between Paris and New York, have tea in Gotham.

There will be eight in the crew of these formidable airliners, and they will carry no less than three tons of freight and mail.

A meteorological ship, the Carimare, will cruise in mid-ocean to advise the flying liners of atmospheric conditions.

Temporary plans—under the direction of Marcel Olivier, president of the French Line—envisage the airports as Biscarosse, just south of Bordeaux, and Port Washington, Long Island.

full time protection at both Orange and East Fourth street, the East Fifth street crossing which was just as hazardous was guarded 17 hours daily, between 5:30 a. m. and 10:30 p. m.

He said the Surrey road crossing of the Pennsylvania railroad over which a large percentage of Ohio Brass company employes pass had no protection provided by the railroad. Hunter added that the Ohio Brass company for the protection of its employes, furnished its own watchman during the hours when the employes are leaving work.

The mayor pointed out to the commisison that the danger was double at these crossings during the unprotected hours because motorists depend on the signals that are there part of the time.

SPEED TRIAL OF KIDNAP-KILLER

U. S. to Seek Chair Death For Slayer of Wealthy Chicagoan, Crime Pal.

will be removed to his sister's home at Providence, Ky.

J. Edgar Hoover, FBI chief who returned to Washington Sunday, revealed before he left that he learned Ross, when he signed the ransom note which was delivered to his family, believed he was signing a demand for $5,000 instead of the $50,000 which actually was paid Oct. 8 near Rockford, Ill.

He disclosed also that an autopsy of Ross' body at Spooner showed three separate skull fractures and a bullet wound in the body. Gray, whom Seadlund killed for profit, was shot nine times.

Seadlund, a native of Ironton, Minn., met Carroll while the latter was hiding out in the north woods. He waited on him, brought him food and became interested in crime.

He came to Chicago in 1934 after breaking jail at Brainerd, Minn., July 28 of the same year. He had been serving a term for stealing an automobile. It was his first crime, Hoover said.

Seadlund traveled extensively after his jail break and committed several robberies. Then he joined an unnamed partner and went to Dayton, O., Wisconsin and Bismarck, N. D. In 1936 and 1937 he robbed banks at Eagle River, Milltown and Colfax, Wis., and Shakopee, Minn.

Last July he and Gray, whom he met while returning from a trip to Spokane, Wash., kidnaped the maid of Mrs. C. A Tilt of Rhinelander, Wis., in the belief she carried $100,000 worth of jewels belonging to Mrs. Tilt. They released her when they found they were mistaken.

Sept. 2 they kidnaped Olivia Borcia, 20, wife of a Chicago bookmaker near Lake Geneva, Wis. She was released two days later when they learned Borcia was unable to pay a $5,000 ransom. Then they went to Decatur, Ill., where they planned to kidnap Augustus Staley, jr., president of the Staley Products company. They abandoned the plan because Staley was not at home.

Like to Pay $3 a Pound for Beef?

Price of Steak-On-the-Hoof Soars As Cattlemen Bid for Prize Bulls

(By The AP Feature Service)

THE housewife who thinks 60 cents a pound too much for beefsteak better not go to a western cattle sale. At the one where these pictures were made, on a Wyoming ranch near Cheyenne, bidders from 25 states and Canada and Mexico paid up to three dollars a pound for bulls — $3,250 for the one in the ring. Fifty head sold for about $40,000—an average of $733 apiece, highest in 20 years at this ranch's annual sale.

DOUBLE TROUBLE

Woman, Sneezing for 6 Days, Develops Whistling Ear.

OAKLAND, Calif.—(AP)—Physicians at Alameda county hospital were confounded by the case of Mrs. Betty Grose, 24, who fell to sneezing six days ago and developed a whistling ear.

While doctors studied what they called one of the strangest cases in the hospital's records, Sterling Grose, unemployed plasterer, led the five Grose children and neighbors in prayer for his wife's recovery.

Hospital attaches said sedatives gave the attractive, red-haired young matron only temporary relief. She sneezes every 20 seconds.

An ear whistle, lasting about 10 seconds and occurring every three minutes, has developed.

RITES TODAY FOR MRS. SCHUSTER

Rev. Wilkerson Officiates At Services For Mansfield Woman.

Funeral services for Mrs. Minnie Schuster, 58, of 186 West Dickson avenue, who died of a heart attack Friday evening, were held at 3 p. m. today at the Wappner funeral home with Rev. J. A. Wilkerson of the Glad Tidings church assisted by Elder R. I. Champion, officiating. Burial was to be in the Mansfield cemetery.

Mrs. Schuster was stricken while purchasing groceries in a store near the Glad Tidings church which she had planned to attend that evening, and collapsed on the steps of the store.

A daughter, Mrs. Giftie Johnson, was with her at the time.

Rev. Wilkerson was summoned from the church and was also with her when she died.

retirement sysytems and will not be included in the plan.

In the event of the death of a member of the system, before retirement, his accumulated contributions are refunded to a beneficiary or to his estate.

It is estimated that 75,000 municipal and county employes in Ohio are eligible to participate in the plan and, along with the 16,000 state workers who already have their pension system, would pay $4,500,000 annually into the pension fund.

Benefits from the plan vary according to the length of service of the participant. A person who contributes for 35 years on a salary of $2,000 would receive about $131 per month for life after retirement at 70.

One who has worked 20 years prior to Dec. 31, 1934, and serves the city or county 10 years after that date at a $2,000 salary would get $66 per month after retirement.

Richland county employes, who had joined other county workers in the state in a campaign to get the law passed, were represented by Deputy Auditor Arthur S. Beck and Raymond K. Clark, deputy in the probate court, at a recent meeting in Columbus at which details of the plan were outlined.

Wilson E. Hoges, secretary of the state employes retirement system, will explain the law to prospective members at other organization meetings in Columbus before the plan becomes effective in April.

County Auditor Norman L. Wolfe is a member of the executive committee of the County and City Employes Retirement organization which campaigned for the law. The group's activities have been handled by Miss Hazel K. Hite, Cleveland, secretary.

"I AM ONE OF THE MILLIONS WHO PREFER CAMELS" SAYS RALPH GREENLEAF
WORLD'S CHAMPION IN POCKET BILLIARDS

"HEALTHY NERVES ARE A MUST WITH ME!".

FOURTEEN different times the news headlines have flashed: RALPH GREENLEAF WINS WORLD'S CHAMPIONSHIP. In a special interview during his recent championship play in Philadelphia, Ralph said: "I'd say the most important rule in this game is to have healthy nerves. And on that score, I think, Camels have a lot extra to offer. One of the main reasons why I've stuck to Camel cigarettes for twenty years is—they don't ruffle my nerves."

And America as a nation shows the same preference for finer tobaccos that Ralph Greenleaf does! Camels are the largest-selling cigarette in America

Fencing experts, too, appreciate Camel's finer tobaccos. As BELA DE TUSCAN, the famous instructor, says: "Fencing is very tiring, and I welcome the quick 'lift' I get with a Camel."

"The way these light boats bounce around knocks the daylights out of my digestion! Camels help my digestion to keep on an even keel," says MULFORD SCULL, outboard motorboat racer.

JAMES L. CLARK, famous scientist and explorer, says: "I always carry plenty of Camels with me into the wilderness. 'I'd walk a mile for a Camel!' Many's the time I've done it."

HELEN HOWARD, top-flight spring-board diver, of Miami, Florida, says: "Camels don't irritate my throat—not even when I'm sitting around in a wet suit, a target for irritation."

DO PEOPLE APPRECIATE THE COSTLIER TOBACCOS IN CAMELS?

● A matchless blend of finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS—Turkish and Domestic.

HE IS COUNTED THE GREATEST POCKET-BILLIARD PLAYER OF ALL TIME. Here Greenleaf executes a difficult massé shot, requiring split-hair accuracy, faultless stroking, and healthy nerves. And the world's two famous masters of the cue—champion Ralph Greenleaf and the 18.1 balkline billiard champion, Willie Hoppe—are both Camel smokers.

MRS. MARTIN JOHNSON, NOTED JUNGLE EXPLORER, TO VISIT CITY

The Mansfield University club today completed arrangements for the appearance in Mansfield on Friday, March 11, of Mrs. Asa Johnson, famous jungle explorer and widow of the late Martin Johnson, noted explorer and big game hunter who was killed in an airplane crash near Los Angeles last January.

MRS MARTIN JOHNSON

Mrs. Johnson is filling several lecture tour contracts which were signed before her husband's death. She has only recently returned from the African jungles where she went, while still suffering from injuries received in the crash, to supervise the jungle sequences for the motion picture based on the lives of David Livingstone and Henry Stanley, which is now being completed in Hollywood.

Mrs. Johnson, who probably has led a more hazardous and thrilling life than any other women who has ever followed in the footsteps of an exploring husband, will talk on her experiences, under the theme of "Jungles Calling," and she will illustrate her lecture with sequences of film depicting the most thrilling of their adventures, some of which have been shown in their previous pictures.

The Johnsons made a number of pictures of their adventures in Africa, both for the silent films and the talking pictures. They were among the first persons to make "travel pictures," and their films were always box office hits because of their authenticity.

While in Mansfield she will speak and show her pictures for school children in the afternoon and address an adult audience in the evening.

ONLY 14 TO SEE MRS. HAHN DIE

Welfare Head Says Witnesses to Electrocution March 10 Will Be Limited.

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Mrs. Margaret Allman, state welfare director, asserted today that the number of persons permitted to witness the execution of Mrs. Anna Marie Hahn, scheduled for March 10, would be limited to conform with state statute.

"Hundreds of requests have been received," the director said, "but I do not expect more than 13 or 14 to witness the execution."

Mrs. Allman said the law limited spectators in the execution chamber to three Hamilton county newspapermen, one representative of each of the three Columbus daily papers, the warden, one deputy warden, guards, the Hamilton county sheriff, the prison chaplain, prison physician, not more than three persons designated by Mrs. Hahn, and one or two persons appointed by the welfare department to attend in lieu of the former board of prison managers.

NOT SO MUCH

CHEYENNE, Wyo.—(INS)—The widespread belief that its costs the railroad 75 cents every time the engineer whistles for a crossing is erroneous, an estimate made by David B. Emmons, Union Pacific fireman, showed. Emmons said he figured that the average toot lasts about seven seconds and uses only slightly more than one pound of coal in even the largest locomotives. "At current prices, that makes each toot cost about one-eighth of a cent," he said.

CHAPTER X.

Terry Cantine's gray eyes widened in surprise at Caradad's unexpected question. She sat watching him soberly. Before he spoke, Terry rapped the ash from his pipe and thrust it into his pocket.

"What makes you think something is wrong, Dad?"

"I know it," she said simply. "Is it business?"

"Why...if anything, things haven't been going any too well, but I didn't know I was grousing that much. Sorry."

"I wish you could tell me."

"Oh, it's merely an uphill game. These past few years have been tough—even for folks with money to invest. They're cagey. I never bother with anything that isn't gilt-edge and my friends know it. But it's the everlasting playing along with them that gets on my nerves. I mean the big game.

You know that a lot of big deals are put across down home by a couple of fellows perched on a corral rail, chewing tobacco or whittling sticks. Well, it's a good deal like that in a big town, nowadays."

"What do you mean?"

"That big business isn't done in private offices the way it used to be. It's taken to lunching at exclusive clubs, riding to hounds and playing golf. All very nice—if you can afford the time and money."

"Oh. I see. You mean it takes money to make money."

"Very concisely put, my dear. That's the whole thing in a nutshell."

Caradad looked very thoughtful. Terry's account of his business was startlingly like the one Mrs. Greenway had given her. He had unusual business talents but it needed money to exploit them. And Mrs. Greenway was worried—and helpless. That was because she cared. So much that she was afraid Terry might become interested in some girl who would prove an additional burden...be the "end" of him. Caradad found herself wondering suddenly what Mrs. Greenway's attitude would be should some woman, another woman, mark the "beginning" of Terry Cantine.

"That's all very different from anything I've ever known," she conceded slowly. "Do you think it's worth the investment — and worry?"

"Probably not," was Terry's prompt response. "But I wasn't cut out to play the piker. I saw enough of that at home with the old gentleman. He was content to plod along and take a little profit here and there. And what did it get him? A chance to retire from hard work, but not from pinching nickels. I have to play for big stakes, whether I win or not. And I propose to have a little fun as I go along."

"I'm not sure that I blame you," Caradad mused. "I've felt the same way."

"You!" Terry's laugh rang out for the first time that evening. "Excuse me," he apologized, "but that sounded funny. I can't somehow think of you as the business woman....I forgot. I reckon you have had to get into it some."

"Yes. I've had to learn a good deal about Pop's affairs since..."

"Sure. I know. Good experience for any woman. Only hope it doesn't bring you too much worry."

"I wish, Terry, there was something I could do to help you."

It came out hesitatingly, but, to Caradad's relief, the response was not the laugh she anticipated. Instead, Terry regarded her soberly for a long minute before replying unexpectedly, "Why?"

"I guess it's because we've been—neighbors."

Terry's nearest hand came out with an impulsive gesture, covered both of Caradad's lying folded in her lap.

"Thanks, pardner. That's the nicest thing I've heard since I hit this town. They don't know about that neighbor stuff here." He gave her small fingers a squeeze and withdrew his hand. "Don't you bother your little head over me. I'll always make out. My main job right now is to see that you have a good time while you're around here. If you don't see what you want, ask for it and we'll round it up."

Caradad responded with a worried little smile. "About Friday night, Terry. Will those people—will it be formal? Of course I'm thinking about clothes. If you'd rather, I could ask Mrs. Greenway..."

"Don't ask anybody," was the brusque retort. "Wear whatever you want—you'll look all right. There's never much formality around Nick's place and the few who will be there are all good pals. You never know how many crashers you'll run into up there, but they don't count."

"Crashers?"

"Oh, I mean that most any of Nick's acquaintances are apt to drop in day or night if they have a thirst—a sort of public house. But it's such a rambling place we won't have any trouble finding a private corral for our herd. And, speaking of clothes, don't feel that you have to go out and squander your money on an outfit you may not want again in a hurry. That would be silly."

"I suppose so. But I don't want to disgrace you."

"I'm not worrying."

Shortly after that, Terry took his leave and Caradad went to her room and to bed. For a long time, however, she lay awake in the dark thinking over the events of the day, of the two unexpected acquaintances she had made....of Terry. It all made a jumbled picture, like bits of a jigsaw puzzle. Perplexing, but interesting. Then, there was Friday night.

That party loomed formidably, the more Caradad thought of it. If Nick was so rich that he had to have sixteen rooms and as many servants all to himself, it stood to reason that his party guests would dress in keeping with their surroundings. Well, it wouldn't hurt to make a round of the stores in the morning and hunt for...ideas.

The next morning, a breakfast newspaper served to put "ideas" into a more concrete and alluring form. Two hours later, Caradad Vardell was succumbing weakly to the professional blandishments of two enthusiastic saleswomen who produced a delectable formal that seemed to have been designed especially for a slender young person from Oklahoma. An orchid chiffon with a deep decoletage, billowy. Caradad's mental protests reached the vanishing point when she saw herself arrayed in the creation. Perhaps there was no good reason why she should not return to wearing colors. And it was the most beautiful dress she had ever seen — rather a bargain, too. She made a mental calculation of the travelers' checks remaining in her bag, pursed her small mouth speculatively and said she "believed" she would take it.

After that, there was a question of matching slippers and hose. As a sop to her conscience, Caradad led the two grown enthusiasts to believe that she had more evening wraps than she knew what to do with. And went to the store's bargain basement where she selected a velvet jacket that she believed would answer the purpose. That done, she told herself firmly that her spending spree was over and in a spirit of economy hunted the lunch counter next, climbed to a high stool and ordered a chicken sandwich and a cup of chocolate. She was almost satisfied with her reformation, until she heard snatches of conversation from her two neighbors, attractive young girls.

"I knew you'd be crazy over that permanent everbody is, Jules, upstairs, designed that new croquinole himself, special this week, told me it was ravishing for a small figure like mine . . . too bad, dear, you're so tall. . . ."

Caradad wasted no sympathy on the broad-shouldered listener. With a sigh, she came to the conclusion that Jules' satisfied customer was about her own size and weight. She drained her chocolate cup, paid her check and went to the nearest directory to locate the designer of ravishing waves. After all. . . .

...FOODS New Ideas for an Old Art RECIPES...

Specials Give Chance For Economy

By PAULINE SCHOFIELD
Home Service Director of the Ohio Fuel Gas Company.

Food bills run high during the winter months. Cold, brisk winds sharpen healthy appetites and the family clamors for solid, substantial meals. This means the housewife must buy meats, vegetables and other foodstuffs in larger volume than at any other period of the year. However, most foodstuffs cost more during the winter months than during other seasons.

Schofield

With perishables so high in price at this season, most shoppers keep a thrifty eye peeled for specials offered by merchants. The homemaker with a roomy refrigerator is indeed forunate for she can take advantage of these winter specials and volume purchases.

There is another equally important factor at this season—the full utilization of left-overs. With heavy meals being the order of the season, there are more left overs, which if stored in the refrigerator can be served in a lot of appetizing ways.

When friends drop in unexpectedly, when children rush home from vigorous winter sports, there is always the problem of a hurried snack, and a well stocked refrigerator is an assurance of almost effortless winter hospitality.

Escalloped Ham.

It isn't beef and it isn't veal, but just the well known favorite cooked smoked ham with a dashing sauce for winter months. It can be prepared well in advance and heated to serve at the time you desire.

6 tablespoons butter
6 tablespoons flour
Pepper
1 teaspoon salt
4 cups milk
3 cups (1½ lbs.) cooked smoked ham, diced
2 cups mushrooms
4 tablespoons chopped, canned pimiento
4 tablespoons sliced olives

Cooked diced ham for one-half hour, or until tender, or use left-over cooked ham and dice. Melt butter in top of double boiler, add flour and seasonings and blend well together until smooth. Add milk gradually, stirring constantly, and cook until thickened and the raw starch taste has left the sauce. Add the remaining ingredients and cook until all are well heated through. If canned mushrooms are used, rinse well and allow to stand uncovered a few minutes to improve the flavor. Freshly gathered mushrooms should be carefully washed, quartered, and browned lightly in butter before being added to the sauce. Yields 6 to 8 servings.

Curried Pineapple.

See what curry can do to remind you that with fruit, it gives an unusual flavor, especially when served hot with pineapple slices or sticks.

6 to 8 slices pineapple
¼ cup melted butter
½ cup brown sugar
1 teaspoon curry powder

Arrange pineapple in casserole. Mix melted butter with brown sugar and curry powder, put over the fruit, and bake uncovered in a moderately slow oven (300 degrees F.) 30 minutes, or until done. Yields 6 to 8 servings. Note: Pineapple sticks may be used.

Doubling Your Butter

Gelatin, top milk and one pound of good butter, when heated and mixed, will turn you out two pounds of butter, not quite so rich, perhaps, but still very good.

Groceries Will Stretch Even Though Budget Is Inelastic

By MRS. ALEXANDER GEORGE
(AP Feature Service Writer)

The housewife who knows how to cut corners in cooking will discover balancing the food budget is fairly simple after all. Her economy begins with discriminating selection of low-cost foods that are both nutritious and tasty. It is enhanced by skillful preparation.

Things to Remember.

Budget-balancing aids include:
1—Using the oven to fullest capacity.
2—Saving the stock in which mild flavored vegetables have been cooked to use in soups and stews.
3—Serving vegetables uncooked as often as possible. They'll go farther and be more nutritious.
4—Saving excess fat from cooked bacon, pork, ham or chicken to use later for seasoning and browning.
5—Utilizing every scrap of left-over food.
6—Preparing foods with an eye to their use at more than one meal.
7—Using tough and outer leaves of vegetables for salads, soups and stews.
8—Straining leftover French dressing and using it again.

Hold-Out Hints.

It's a good idea to select two baking days—and then fill up the oven with extra meat loaves, baked beans, cakes, puddings and other desserts . . . to say nothing of main meal dishes for that particular day.

2 POUNDS OF BUTTER FOR 1

1 lb. butter
1 quart milk
1 heaping teaspoonful plain unflavored gelatin
2 teaspoons salt

Take the top cream from a quart of milk and add enough milk to make one pint.

Soak the gelatin in two tablespoonfuls of the milk for five minutes. Then place in a dish of hot water until gelatin is dissolved.

Cut the butter into small pieces and place it in a dish over hot water until the butter is quite soft. Gradually whip the milk and cream and dissolved gelatin into the butter with an egg beater. After the milk is thoroughly beaten into the butter, add the salt to taste. If the milk forms, keep on beating until it is all mixed in. Place on ice or in a cool place until hard.

Using leftovers—probably the most important secret of all—requires ingenuity and practice.

Here are a few hints:

Save eight oysters from your next batch of escalloped oysters. Use them the next day in a cream sauce poured over toast. If you're having cooked meat or fish, save half a cup and serve it the same way.

Reserve half a cup of coconut cream, lemon or caramel pie filling—and use it as a filling for baked cake layers or drop cakes cut in half.

Stuff some cold leftover baked apples with cheese or diced fruit for a salad dessert.

Uses For Dough.

Roll out lefover dough and spread it with a meat, fish or vegetable mixture. Roll the spread dough and bake it in a greased loaf pan. Serve it hot, with a creamy sauce, savory mushrooms or tomato sauce. Or you can roll that leftover dough very thin, spread it with cheese and butter, then cut it into strips for cheese straws to serve with soup or salad.

Still another use for leftover dough is to make it into small tart cases. Fill the cases with a chocolate or butterscotch cream filling or fresh cooked fruits.

Remember to save fats. A pound of bacon will yield as much as a cup of fat—if it is carefully poured off while the bacon is cooking. You can keep the fat in a cold place for as long as two weeks.

CANADA FACING ISSUE OVER U. S. TRADE TREATY

Parliament to Meet Jan. 27 With Reciprocity as One of Biggest Problems.

OTTAWA, Ont.—(U.P.)—Parliament assembles Jan. 27 for one of its most important sessions in recent years.

Four items of outstanding importance are on the agenda for discussion in the House of Commons and other questions of lesser import, perhaps, will develop as the session gets under way. The session, it is expected, will last about five months.

Revising the present reciprocal pact between Canada and the United States ranks as the primary subject for discussion. A new treaty, replacing the agreement which went into effect on Jan. 1, 1936, is being drawn up by tariff experts at Washington and Ottawa. Several important changes, in view of the proposed agreement between the United States and Great Britain, are expected. Bitter controversy, in the event that Canada is forced to yield any of its preference in the British market, is expected from the opposition benches. Apart, however, from the economic merits of the proposals, they will be regarded as a background for international goodwill between Anglo-Saxon nations at a time when dictatorships are menacing the peace of the world.

The trade agreement debate may or may not be included in the budget.

Appropriations for national defence have been worked out by Prime Minister MacKenzie King and his cabinet. Details of the plan have not been revealed, but it is believed they will equal at least the $35,000,000 appropriation of last year. The continuation of the Spanish civil war and the outbreak of the Sino-Japanese conflict since the last meeting of Parliament is expected to make passage of the expenditures somewhat easier. The recent by-election in Lotbiniere, Que., where the Nationalist candidate was defeated because of his anti-armament program, is regarded as significant. The greater part of the defence appropriation will be spent on coastal defences, especially on the Pacific, and in aviation.

INCOME TAX IN NUTSHELL

NO. 1

How To Avoid Common Errors.

The period for the filing of income-tax returns covering the calendar year 1937 began Jan. 1 and ends at midnight of March 15, 1938. To file early is of mutual benefit to the government and the taxpayer. Within this period are filed annually millions of individual income-tax returns, a large proportion of which report income subject to the tax.

The latter contain a considerable percentage of errors, which if uncorrected by the audit would result to the disadvantage of the taxpayer. Many are errors of computation easily discovered on the face of the return, which usually is accompanied by a payment of more than the amount of tax due. In other returns it is readily discernible that the taxpayer has failed to take advantage of the personal exemption, credit allowed for dependents, or deductions from gross income to which he is entitled.

To avoid these and other errors, the Bureau of Internal Revenue urges careful reading of the instructions accompanying the forms for filing the returns. Additional information, if needed, may be obtained at the office of a collector of internal revenue, deputy collector, or an internal revenue agent in charge. Taxpayers who apply to revenue officers for assistance in preparing returns should bring with them a copy of their prior year return. Also, as a further aid in the preparation of a correct income-tax return for the year 1937, the bureau has prepared a series of short newspaper articles, of which this is the first, advising the salaried man, wage earner, professional and businessman—in fact, every class of individual taxpayers—of his requirements and privileges as interpreted under the latest regulations, rulings, and decisions relating to the income-tax law.

Three Carloads of Fuel, Garbage Supplies to be Purchased.

Sealed bids for the furnishing of fuel and supplies for the operation of the municipal government will be received at the office of the secretary of the board of control until noon Feb. 14, Service-Safety Director Tracy C. Styert, announced today.

Specifications call the supplying of three cars of egg coal, 600 new garbage cans, and 300 covers. The cans must be heavily galvanized, not corrugated and embossed "City of Mansfield."

The notice says each proposal must be accompanied with a certified check in the sum of $25 as surety that if the proposal is accepted, a contract will be entered into.

2 DANCES TO MARK PRESIDENT'S BIRTHDAY IN CITY THIS WEEK

Committees had completed plans today for two dances in Mansfield this week in observance of President Roosevelt's birthday and to provide funds for the national foundation to combat infantile paralysis.

Joining the Richland county committee, headed by John F. Correll, president of the Young Democratic club, will be Delano lodge No 169, which will sponsor a President's ball Wednesday night at the lodge hall at Vale and Bowman streets.

The county President's ball will be held Saturday night at the Mansfield-Leland hotel, with the Westinghouse orchestra providing the music.

In addition, a floor show is being arranged for the county ball. It will include five dance numbers by pupils of the Marguerite Speas Dancing studio and possibly acts from the Westinghouse floor show. In the dance numbers will be Geraldine Brightbill, Martha Metcalf, Gladys Huffman, Jean Shill, Marjorie Crowl and Glenn Schroff.

Tickets, which sell for $1 each or $1.50 per couple, are on sale at a number of business places in Mansfield and in all parts of the county. Outside Mansfield, ticket sales are in charge of Mrs Lee Beveridge at Butler; Mrs. Wilbur Lawrence, Lexington; Charles Payne, Shelby Mrs. Olive Walker, Bellville, and Mrs Henry Faulkey, Plymouth.

Mrs. Louise Reese, Mansfield, is general chairman of the ticket committee, while Attorney Marshall C. Moore is head of the committee on arrangements.

Heading the committee planning the Delano lodge dance is Marvin O. Adams. He is assisted by Paul Snyder, Robert Russel, Ray Hayes, and E. P. Cook.

The Delano orchestra will play for the dance, with a floor show scheduled to fill in at intermissions. Admission will be 35 cents per couple, and proceeds will be turned over to the county committee and then to the national foundation for fighting infantile paralysis.

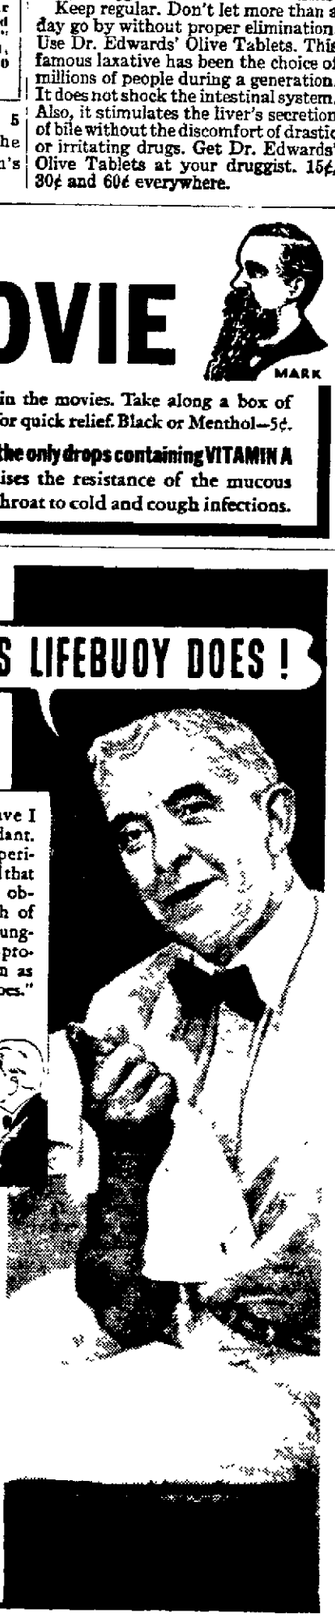
Athletic trainer warns young folks

NO ORDINARY SOAP STOPS "B.O." AS LIFEBUOY DOES!

William H. MacFarland, of Philadelphia, has spent 37 years as an athletic trainer—keeping thousands of youngsters fit. He insists that cleanliness is one of the first rules of health—and a big aid to romance . .



"Most athletes prefer Lifebuoy. It gives them such a clean, 'pepped-up' feeling. I always carry Lifebuoy and pass it out to the youngsters in the locker room...

"Cleanliness is my first rule of health, and Lifebuoy my invaluable aid...There's nothing like its purifying lather! It removes germs as well as dirt, helps protect health...

"Many times have I served as confidant. From these experiences I have found that 'B.O. is a great obstacle in the path of romance. I tell youngsters no other soap protects them as Lifebuoy does."

ATHLETES, housewives, doctors, society women, nurses, business girls, salesmen, lawyers—actually millions of men and women in all walks of life, depend on a daily bath with Lifebuoy to keep them safe from "B.O."—free from any likelihood of offending. . . . Because of their confidence, Lifebuoy is today America's leading bath soap.

And Lifebuoy deserves its place as America's favorite bath soap. For no ordinary soap can stop "B.O." in your daily bath as Lifebuoy does. . . . No ordinary soap gives your skin the same refreshed, extra-clean feeling. No ordinary soap gives you that confidence you're thoroughly protected! You see, Lifebuoy contains an exclusive purifying ingredient not in any other popular toilet or bath soap.

This ingredient makes Lifebuoy a more thorough cleanser—and increases its mildness. . . . That's why fastidious, clear-skinned women rely on its gentle lather for complexion care.

By this time in January it should be fairly easy to write it "1938" instead of obliterating a "7."

It appears that there will be no large following of that Memphis preacher's "give up food" idea.

As Mansfield grows it becomes increasingly easier for a prominent citizen to be out of town for several days without being missed.

As the Plain Dealer remarks: "Slot machines have been banned in Bucyrus but there is nothing to prevent the natives from throwing their nickels, dimes and quarters down the sewer, if they want to get rid of them."

Cities Move Against Gambling.

THE fact that law enforcement moves no faster than public sentiment supports is again evidenced by the practically state-wide campaign that has been launched in recent weeks against various kinds of gambling devices that have been in open operation in many cities, without police interference.

It is possible that the special emphasis placed on banning all forms of gambling from liquor places has directed attention to the fact that gambling is equally illegal in other places of business.

In any event, a large number of cities are now moving to eliminate public gambling of all kinds, the ban against slot machines applying to the pinball variety as well as to the mechanical pay-off type, in which coins or slugs are poured out to the winner instead of being passed over the counter.

A number of cities, including some of the larger ones, have also taken action to stop operation of "bookie" joints and to put an end to the sale of "numbers".

Outcome of the present anti-gambling campaigns in other cities may well be watched with interest here as Mansfield would probably be disinclined to have an influx of gamblers and their devices, after they have been tabooed somewhere else.

The One-Headlight Habit Growing.

THE careless habit of driving an automobile after dark with only one headlight showing, or with no tail-light, has been much in evidence in and around Mansfield in recent weeks.

This indicates that little, if any, attention is being paid by police officers to enforcement of the law requiring proper lighting of cars used for night driving.

While it is unavoidable that a bulb occasionally burns out during the time a car is being driven, it is quite unlikely that an observant motorist would go far without realizing that one headlight was not burning. Careful motorists make it a practice to have an additional bulb in the car for just such an emergency.

To bring improvement in this dangerous situation it might be a good idea, in first offenses, for police officers to take the license number and require the motorist to report at the police station the following morning with his car, to show that the burned-out bulb had been replaced.

In sections where this requirement is enforced it is quite unusual to encounter a car with only one headlight showing while in Mansfield it is an exception to drive even a few blocks without seeing one or more—sometimes three out of five.

Reducing the Smoke Nuisance

SMOKE signals and lookouts over Salt Lake City suggest history repeating itself. They refer, however, not to Indians and pioneers but to offensive smoke stacks. When unduly black smoke is seen pouring from a chimney, whether industrial, residential or institutional, the lookouts of the smoke abatement bureau go after the operator and send him to the smoke school.

In one hour, according to the city smoke engineer, the typical smoke maker can be taught how to run his fire in a way that ends the nuisance and saves him money. Every chimney that throws off less smoke does its bit to reduce the pall over the city. Before long, that cloud should be down to half its present density, resulting in greater beauty, health and cleanliness for the community and profit for every furnace owner.

The smoke nuisance is on its way out. Future citizens, running across old newspapers or old pictures, will wonder how our cities tolerated unnecessary, unwholesome and costly smoke so long.

Children's Food Tastes.

THERE'S no accounting for children's tastes any more than for those of grown-ups. Consider the recent questionnaire sent out by the Boys Athletic league of New York City. The answers mostly gave turkey as first choice in meats, but hash—and not necessarily turkey hash—held second place. Everything else was far behind.

Spinach was given as a favorite vegetable by enough youngsters to make the thing serious. The situation became normal again when dessert was reached. Almost every child gave ice cream preference there. Among the fruits, bananas led, with apples and oranges in second and third place.

As for the spinach vote, regimentation must be responsible. It seems certain that children wouldn't name spinach as tops if they hadn't been conditioned from earliest infancy to regard it as essential.

Romance In Egypt.

ACCORDING to the published pictures, Farida Zulficar, the little Egyptian commoner who has just become a queen, is quite as pretty as any of the recent royal brides.

This wedding is the first wedding of an Egyptian king since the days of the Pharaohs. Farida is Egypt's second queen since Cleopatra. The royal couple are only 17 and 16 years old, too young in American estimation for such responsibilities, but not too young for a fairy tale romance or for life in a Mohammedan country.

According to the United States department of commerce, the lipstick used in this country annually would paint forty thousand barns—and the barns would probably look much better.

Purchasing Power Governs 'Saturation Point'

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON—One of my esteemed readers writes in, taking exception to a reference I recently made to the "saturation" of certain of our markets—that is to say, so large a supply of products on hand that demand cannot absorb any more of them, thus forcing a slow-down in production until consumerdom has had time to assimilate some of the already existing accumulation.

This critic takes the position that there can be no such thing as an oversupply of merchandise generally until everyone has as much of everything as he would like to have if he could pay for it—which, my reader submits, will be never.

No truer statement ever was made by anyone.

All I intended to imply was that a market reaches the saturation point at the limit of its customers' ability to continue buying.

UNBALANCED PRODUCTION

I do think that there may be unbalanced production — an unmarketable volume of some things, a shortage of others.

Long ago, in the then developing northwest, where I grew up, we had a country newspaper editor of the name of Charlie Collins — a very public-spirited chap and a religious cuss, who often was asked to lead in prayer at one or another of the local meeting houses.

(I recently saw this story reprinted by a fellow columnist, but it's a chestnut of half a century's standing, and it originated with Charlie Collins.)

There was a local depression. Many folk were suffering. The pastor of the First M. E. church, if I remember correctly, invited Charlie to pray for them. He responded readily.

THE PRAYER

"I beg, Heavenly Father," he said reverently, 'shelter and clothing for each family in this community. I beg for fuel for each of them. I beg for each of them, a barrel of flour, a barrel of pork, a barrel of salt and a barrel of pepper—

'No, no, Heavenly Father, I misspoke; that's too much pepper."

That's what I would call an unbalance—an oversaturation of pepper requirements in Charlie's community.

Improved shelter, warmer clothes, lots of fuel and more flour and pork would have been preferable; not quite so much salt and pepper. Charlie, on a second thought, recognized it.

DISCOVERIES HELP

Of course an apparent oversupply of something may have an immediate demand created for it by the discovery of some new method of utilizing it.

For example, we are supposed to have an oversupply of farm products.

At this juncture Henry Ford suggests that autos can be made out of wheat chaff and such stuff, as well as out of steel, et cetera. If so, here's a big boon for wheat chaff—and let the wheat go hang, as a by-product.

STEWART'S VIEW

As to Henry Ford?

I wouldn't accept him as an authority on the subject of geography or history. I've talked with him on both issues.

But, as to what autos can be made out of?

Nobody mortal could convince me more readily. If he says they can be made out of wheat chaff, they CAN.

And, heaven knows, I would rather be hit by a flivver made out of wheat chaff than out of some other more substantial material.

I'd think that the substitution of wheat chaff for steel in the automotive industry might becloud steel's outlook. However, that is steel's funeral.

READER'S SUGGESTION

But to get back to my initial critic:

"Why not," he inquires, "detail a number of intelligent men and women to go out and mingle with the 'lower classes'? Stipulating that they must earn their own way, unaided by political influence. Or, better yet, that their names be added to the relief rolls, for a long enough period to destroy the rosy haze that now obscures their vision.

"These people to stay for a specified time and give an accurate report when their time is up.

"I offer this as an experiment to end experiments—a fact-finding expedition that should give those who were raised on a gold spoon a bit of food for reflection."

HIS INCOME

"I'm not," adds this correspondent, "on relief, but I have been.

"Now I'm holding down a position for which I receive a salary far below the $100 monthly which someone has said was the minimum amount necessary for comfort in this country. On this stipend I support two people. Have I a large surplus on which to satisfy my demands for American products?

"Yet I give sincere thanks that I am much better off than many thousands of others."

To Boycott or Not to Boycott?

WASHINGTON—If you have not heard much about the Japanese boycott it may help to bring you up to date to report that numbers of impressionable girls in these parts are wearing cotton stockings and a prominent Washington department store has bought no Japanese goods since the sinking of the Panay.

Just what the girls or the store expect to accomplish by this boycott is not altogether clear at this moment, but some of them are determined about it. The general idea seems to be that if Japan can't sell goods to the U. S. she will have less money to carry on the war.

Japan, however, is roping in China mainly to assure itself additional markets in which to sell export goods. If the United States stops buying from the Japanese it seems a fair guess that the Japanese will try even more desperately to bottle up extra markets in the Orient. That sounds like more war, instead of less.

Manager Says 'Mostly Talk.'

OUR reports indicate that the boycott has become sort of a game in New York city where the girls compare notes on the number of silk stockings they don't buy. One anti-Japanese partisan bought herself a pair of lisle stockings as a means of depriving the Japanese of munitions money, only to find on arrival at home that "Made in Japan" was stamped on them.

A few store clerks here say numbers of patrons, especially during the Christmas holidays, asked for goods not made in Japan but a store manager says the amount of this discrimination was less than you would expect from the amount of propaganda you hear about it."

However, he says some textile mills are turning out new designs of lisle hosiery and a few sheer types have appeared. He seemed not especially enthusiastic about them and expressed doubt if the ladies would give up their silks. Some clerks in New York are more zealous about suggesting what goods are not made in Japan.

We learn from a news clipping that 50 women of the "American League for Peace and Democracy" in Beverly Hills, California, started a door-to-door canvas throughout southern California, including Hollywood. They didn't say whether they would picket the movie studios. There's a bit of silk used there.

* * *

Japanese Products Dropped.

THE National Association of Parents and Teachers reported they were taking no official action but the local association says some individuals, "strictly unofficially," are going in for the boycott.

Woolworth's five-and-ten stores are abandoning Japanese lines but one of their competitors here is thoroughly impatient at the idea—says talk of the boycott is "so much propaganda."

Department of commerce trade reports don't show clearly any effect of the boycott. The department's January foreign trade summary noted that in Japan there were "reports of exceptionally low silk consumption in the United States during November" but prices were not affected.

The drop in silk trade continued on into December but department experts declined to estimate whether any part of it was due to the boycott or all was due to the recession.

If a really serious silk boycott went into effect it could hurt Japan. Silk is one of that nation's chief crops and the United States buys about 85 per cent of the whole output. The purchases run to about $95,000,000 a year. One store manager here says silk makers estimate this $95,000,000 of silk is processed into products in this country worth about $580,000,000. If that business should be wiped out it would not be so nice.

Listen, World!

Young America Comments On the Male of the Species.

REMARKS on Men. And all of them uncomplimentary. Can you stand a little Candor, Boys? Then here's your dish . . . served with paprika.

"Dear Elsie—

Will someone tell me why the so-called He-men of this land don't do something about THE BREACH-OF-PROMISE AND ALIMONY RACKET?

"These heroes of ours go out into a cold world to keep the wolf from the door...they fight wars...lick burglars single-handed and run endless reckless risks. Yet, when it comes to standing up for their rights and fighting a system which permits a parasitic ex-wife or a scheming, unprincipled gold-digger to drain money from their pockets as fast as it gets there, they simply lie down, roll over and fork out the dough. And for what?

"WHY SHOULD A BACHELOR BE CONDEMNED TO PAY 'N' PAY FOR HIS ENTIRE LIFE? SIMPLY BECAUSE HE HAS HAPPENED TO CHANGE HIS MIND? A GIRL DOES SO WITHOUT COMMENT...THEN WHY NOT THE MAN? ANY WOMAN WHO HAS SO LITTLE PRIDE THAT SHE'D ADVERTISE AND CAPITALIZE ON HER 'WRONGS' ISN'T WORTH MARRYING ANYWAY!

"When a girl tries to cash in on her tears, I personally have no use for her. I'm for the gal who can take a little jilting — and go on laughing. And as for these childless wives who cannot make a success of marriage—why in the name of reason should a man support a woman when she's out of his heart and home? I'M A WOMAN BUT I TELL YOU THESE WOMEN TACTICS...AND THE KIND OF MEN WHO WILL STAND FOR THEM...BURN ME UP!"

Miss Peggy Castleberry—29 years,
Venice, Calif.
($10 prize winner)

And I'm voting with you, Peg! Likewise in some respects with Marjorie, who follows — though I doubt if feminine charm is as devastating as she reports.

"Dear Elsie—

Why does the average man assume that a young divorcee is fair play for amorous advances which he would never dream of making to her single sister?

"I'm 29, attractive, of good background, and far better equipped to be a good, understanding pal today than I was ten years ago, when I was a silly, tactless youngster. I would enjoy the friendly companionship of a fine man and I think I could be worthy of it. Yet, in the three years I have lived alone, every man whose association I have accepted for the evening has, in return, expected insulting intimacies. When I indignantly explain that a former marriage has in no way lowered my moral standards, he sallies forth on his philandering way and it's curtains for me.

"Why can't men act as gentlemen toward me, simply because I'm divorced?"

Marjorie Kovner—age 29
Los Angeles, Cal.
($10 prize winner)

YES, I've heard that divorce plea before, sister. Unhappily, I was a divorcee myself. And I've plenty of sympathy for the loneliness and bewilderment which comes with that condition—but not a snitch of sympathy with this particular complaint. Generally speaking, men treat women — divorced or otherwise—exactly as they want to be treated.

If men treat the divorced woman more flippantly than they do her unmarried sister, IT'S USUALLY BECAUSE SHE TREATS HERSELF MORE FLIPPANTLY, AND THEY SIMPLY FOLLOW HER CUE. Personally, I'm fed up with the antics of the usual coy divorcee with her come-hither glance. TO A FINE AND CULTURED WOMAN, DIVORCE IS HEART-BREAKING...AND SHE HAS NO DESIRE TO FLIT ABOUT LIKE A CAREFREE YOUNG SIXTEEN-YEAR-OLD. If she does, she has only herself to thank if the Boy Friend takes her at her own rating.

REMEMBER our "SUGGEST A SUBJECT?" contest? Scads of answers came — won plenteous prizes. Here's a hang-over suggestion from Donald W. Cooper of Benton Harbor, Mich...."IS A DOTING MOTHER THE BEST INFLUENCE IN A BOY'S FORMATIVE YEARS?"

"I'm the son of such a mother and don't care who knows it," says Donald. "Personally I think that a doting mother is usually an understanding mother, who knows and can tell the best answers to life's problems—provided we want to hear them. Then why should I be called a 'Sissy' simply because I think my mother is my best friend?"

Donald W. Cooper—age 22
Benton Harbor, Mich.
($5 prize winner)

I'm a mother, myself, Don, and taking us by and large, I think we're a grand gang. But the mere fact that we "dote" on our sons is no guarantee that we are informed, intelligent or fit to advise. The admission that you love your mother is no mark against you. BUT THE FACT THAT, AT 22, YOU PERMIT ANYONE, EVEN A MOTHER, TO FORM YOUR OPINIONS FOR YOU, CERTAINLY SOUNDS LIKE SOMETHING WRONG SOMEWHERE.

Better get out and let the boys rough you up a little, son. No doubt that Mom's a great old gal, but you've gotta have your curls cut some day.

WHAT IT MEANS:

The Holding Company Debate.

By MORGAN M. BEATTY

WASHINGTON—The president is taking pot-shots at holding companies, and the holding companies are firing back. People are talking about financial pyramids and what not, without going very deeply into what these things are.

Well, what is a holding company?

Technically, it is a corporation in a position to control or influence other corporate structures through ownership of securities in those structures.

The primary activity of a holding company is to pump capital and efficiency into the smaller, operating units it controls. Operating companies often welcome holding company control because powerful financial groups can issue and to sell the public securities that never could be marketed by an isolated company. Thus it was that the holding company, like Topsy, jus' growed—and became a peculiarly American financial device to put capital to work to market natural resources and services.

Just a Service Fee.

At the same time, the parent, or top holding corporation can compel its children to adopt efficient methods and put out a uniform product.

But, the holding company device has grown so popular that promoters have been tempted by the possibility of pyramiding profits. Some holding companies have slipped water into their stock issues as they piled one parent company on another, and some have forced operating corporations to pay enormous fees for "services" or have even borrowed money from them.

The number of financial tunes it is possible to play on the holding company piano, in fact, is about as great as the flood coming from Tin Pan Alley.

The holding company made possible such top-heavy financial empires as the Insull utility group, which crashed in 1929 with losses to thousands of investors, many of whom did not even understand what kid of securities they had bought.

Under Test Now.

Abuses have led to some congressional interference with the holding company device. The present law provides that utilities must form their holding companies only in "integrated" areas, that is, in adjoining areas. They can't scatter themselves all over the map. That law is being tested in the supreme court.

Although the utility holding company is more familiar to the newspaper reader than other types of holding operations, the device is in common use throughout industry and banking.

United States Steel uses it to assure smooth, powerful management in its subsidiaries, as well as to keep its financial structure trim. American Telephone and Telegraph is a holding company that harmonizes the management of its state and regional companies, at the same time giving local companies a wide measure of control in local matters. But even A. T. & T. has run into complaints from the Federal Communications commission.

Device Is Defended.

An officer of one of the nation's most efficient corporation holding groups tells me he thinks the device can be efficient, legitimate and convenient. However, he believes it has been abused widely by people who are after quick profits rather than sound business progress.

This executive says the test of a holding company is its ability to finance subsidiaries and to increase their efficiency in producing a cheaper and better product for the consumer.

Shining Windows

Try to look through shining windows
When a view of life you take
Lest your vision be obstructed.
Lest you wrongly, man berate.

Ever keep your spiritual vision;
View not life with great disdain,
Look not on the lives of others,
Seeing through a cloudy pane.

Keep those windows ever shining;
Keep them bright with faith and trust:
'Tis a matter of your choosing
Are your windows flecked with dust.

Look for beauty; you will find it.
Look for goodness; it you'll see.
If you look through shining windows,
Yours a happier life will be.

DAILY BIBLE THOUGHT

THE WATER OF LIFE: And He said unto me, It is done. I am Alpha and Omega, the beginning and the end. I will give unto him that is athirst of the fountain of the water of life freely.—Revelation 21:6.

McIntyre's New York Day by Day

DIARY: Came an original poster in color from a favorite limner, Peter Arno. And Dean Cornwell sent a print of my shield that he painted along with many others for the Warwick's cocktail room. Also a cabled Bible reading from Meredith Nicholson in Venezuela prophetic of the times.

News that Louise Simpson had hawked her first fiction tayle and that Ward Morehouse was a visitor in Gallipolis. So to East End avenue to the Lawrence Tibbetts' tea and home to find as nice and kindly a note as I have ever received from Bernard Baruch, the great capitalist.

Dinner with my wife and Nelle Shaw on a chine of elk meat Major Bowes sent from the Jackson Hole country. And far uptown to see Mary Devine, the tiny Titian I used to ride piggyback on walks along upper Riverside Drive and found her almost a grown up lady.

The newest of the avenue restaurants is Stouffer's, which has establishments in several other key cities. It accentuates the inroad of a more democratic type of eating rendezvous along the big boulevard, a trail blazed by Schrafft's with their home cooking fare. And in contrast to the pontifical plushness and glitteringly chandeliered Delmonico's and old Sherry's. Incidentally Stouffer's brings that treasured mid-west dessert to its menu — Brown Betty. Also lye hominy.

The maddest of the night club zanies continues to be Jack White. He is a graduate of the baseball park where 20 years ago he began to razz visiting players at the Polo Grounds, and employs practically the same technique in shouting down customers who float—float is the word, for they are usually in a haze—into his tiny tepee on West 52d street in the early morning. Few so neatly scotch the heckling stew and he does it without gloves. No one has as yet swung at him—at least not up to press time.

Bars report a sudden uptake in brandy swigging. No one seems to know exactly why. Before prohibition brandy was confined largely to an after-dinner bouquet at formal parties or to old duffers chucking a night cap in their club lounge. But today the youngsters, male and female, go for it not only before meals but after and long into the night. Cognac, too, has become the base of a number of drinks packed with giddyap. So great is the demand that one place in the East 60's makes a bow as The Brandy Bar.

The most accomplished brandy drinker was a star of the silent films. Long use of the powerful drink had given him the chronic shakes unless he was under influence. Alan Dwan used to direct him in handsome devil parts and it was necessary for him to down a half pint or so before facing the camera so he could be filmed, so great were his tremors. Oddly, he is still around, and when I saw him a year or so ago was imbibing deeply of his favorite beverage. I was telling a young interne in a psychopathic war about this particular case one day. And he remarked graphically: "I know about them. But one day they go out with the horrors!" Yet there are cognac drinkers who have appetites under control. Clemenceau's only tipple was a spoonful of brandy in a little warm milk nightly, a rite he indulged before going to bed for 60 years.

Bagatelles: Cholly Knickerbocker, the sylph, has shucked off 28 pounds...Alfred Vanderbilt, America's No. 1 turfman, never makes a bet on a horse race...Rupert Hughes usually begins writing around midnight, puffing black cigars and bucking himself up with strong black coffee...Martha Deane likes to dine alone in the quiet tea-rooms... Uncle Don, after 10 years on the radio, is said to be the best fixed financially of all those who began at the same time...Lee Olwell started his career as a magazine illustrator.

Top laugh of winter: That mighty bugler caparisoned in gold braid and wearing a tall fur hat, on a beautiful charger, who lifted his bugle to open the fashionable horse show—and bugled only a thin canary-like cheep!

How It Started

—By JEAN NEWTON

"Happy as a Hog on Ice."

Of course, the hog on ice is not consciously happy; he is quite dead and only seems to like it.

"Happy as a hog on ice" is a mystifying phrase, mystifying, that is, until one actually sees the whole hog displayed in the refrigerator of a meat shop.

Then and there it may be observed that the butcher has put two sticks in the porker's mouth to keep the jaws apart.

This makes the hog look as though it were enjoying life, smiling and contented, hence the "happy" expression. That is how it started.

FOES OF LYNCH BILL CLAIMING VICTORY NEAR

Texan Declares Night Senate Sessions Will Turn Into a 'Boomerang.'

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)— Opponents of the anti-lynching bill sought today to take advantage of senate rules to kill the controversial measure before the end of the week.

Under a decision my Majority Leader Alben W. Barkley, D Ky., the senate will meet an hour earlier and will hold night sessions until the bill is disposed of. Such procedure was urged by sponsors of the bill in an effort to break the filibuster which has blocked a vote for more than two weeks. But Sen Tom Connally, D. Tex., strategist for the opposition, predicted it would be a boomerang.

"After two nights they'll have to abandon night sessions," Connally predicted as a result of an opposition caucus which pledges all foes of the bill to fight to the finish. "I seriously question whether it will be possible to keep a quorum present at night.

"However, the opponents of the measure will be there. We're ready to talk as long as necessary."

'Man-Killing' Job.

Veteran senators pointed out that it is a man-killing job to try to break a filibuster in which as many as 15 members are participating. The greatest burden falls on those who are trying to do the breaking.

If at any time a call fails to product a quorum—49 senators—the session suspends all business until the requisite number have been rounded up. During such suspension, the only motion permissible is to adjourn. Should the senate adjourn overnight rather than recess, as it has been doing each night since January 5, the anti-lynching bill would be displaced as the pending business—and buried.

As a result it appeared likely that some of the sessions might run all night. Republicans have frequently been absent during the last two weeks when the backers of the bill were trying to maintain a quorum. The enthusiasm of a large group of western senators for the bill has not been such as to indicate that they would lose many nights sleep to force a vote on it.

HELD TO JURY

Newville Couple Deny Charge Of Breaking, Entering.

Although LeRoy and Anna Bemiller, of near Newville, pleaded innocent to a charge of breaking and entering in municipal court, they admitted that they had gone into a neighbor's house during her absence and took some of her belongings. Some one else had done the "breaking" before they arrived, they told the court.

Bemiller, 46, and his wife, 40, were bound over to the grand jury under $500 bond each. They were arrested as they drove along the highway by Deputy Sheriffs Glenn Freeman and J R Hetler. The charge against them was signed by Mrs. Mattie Bowman.

The couple declined counsel and when asked by Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch if they desired to question the complaining witness, Mrs. Bemiller and Mrs Bowman argued over towels and dishes.

Mrs Bemiller said she and her husband had entered the Bowman home during the owners absence when they saw the door standing open and admitted they had taken a number of articles, all of which they had later returned. Freeman said the articles were "returned" after he and Hetler searched the Bemiller home and found Mrs. Bowman's dishes hidden in the wood box, flour sack and other concealed places.

ASK GRANGE TO BACK INSTITUTE

MT GILEAD—Plans for the Mt. Gilead community institute are now indefinite as a result of the postponement which was decided upon by the institute committee called together by Walter Dressel, president.

Little interest has been shown in the proposed event, Dressel said, and the committee felt that they had failed to bring out a large enough attendance to continue unless assistance of local organizations could be secured.

As a result, they have decided to put the plans for the institute before the Gilead grange with the request that they sponsor the event. The question will be considered Thursday night.

Here's Real News! Emily Post Spills A Cranberry Dish

NEW YORK — (AP) — Mrs. Emily Post, arbiter of etiquette—of all people—has spilled something on the tablecloth.

And of all places, it had to happen at a dinner of the Gourmet society, which includes some of New York's fanciest feeders.

And of all things, Mrs. Post had to spill not cowpeas or potlikker but Swedish lingenberries (mountain cranberries to us).

And to make matters as bad as possible, the subject of the day's after-dinner speeches was "Table Manners."

As the cranberry blot deepened on Mrs. Post's escutcheon—and the Hotel St George's tablecloth — J George Frederick, president of society, gallantly suggested that maybe her elbow had been jiggled by a careless waiter.

But the author of "Etiquette" spurned the gesture. "People," she said, "generally think I'm made of tin, a sort of mechanical robot, but it's not so."

And with a smile and a remark that "nobody need ever be afraid of me in the future," she propped her elbows on the table again.

A Farmer's Diary

January 23.

THIS morning about 7:30, I heard a heavy knock upon the kitchen door. A peculiar feeling of distress was in that sound, strange and unfamiliar. I opened it, and there before me stood a man, about 65, tall, stooped and shabbily dressed.

"Please, mister, could you give me something to eat?"

"Yes sir," I said, and invited him to sit by the stove. He humbly obeyed. I asked him what he would like for breakfast.

"Man, no one has taken that trouble for the last 10 years. They don't invite me in, but give me a little food—anything—and close the door; other places I am turned down cold. I feel like a strange dog that no one wants to see."

I prepared him a meal of eggs, coffee and rolls, put cream in his cup and poured the coffee piping hot. He looked upon this with great satisfaction. I stood close by, for I feel it is always a rare pleasure to watch a hungry man eat.

Food disappeared as if by magic. Coffee was cooled by means of the saucer and I poured the second cup; gave him another helping which he ate with the same relish as the first.

When he rose to leave, I helped him with his overcoat. As he stepped out the door he turned and said, "God bless you. I feel better now. I'm not so lonely." A falter in his speech, a tear in his eye which he did not want me to see. It was mutual.

From my comfortable window I watched him walk hesitantly down the road.

NEED 25 YEARS TO HEAL MADRID BATTLE SCARS

Architects Predict That 'New' Spanish Capital to Become Most Modern City.

MADRID—(AP)—Spanish architects say it would take at least 25 years to heal the scars of this former republican capital and in the process Madrid might become the most modern city in Europe.

In the midst of war the architects talk of rebuilding in peace.

About one-fourth of Madrid and its suburbs—even on the basis of present damage—must be rebuilt from the foundation, including the devastated Arguelle sector in West Madrid, once a showplace, all the suburbs lying beyond the Manzanares river, University City, a considerable part of the Cuatro Caminos district and smaller areas elsewhere.

Salvage crews already are at work reducing these ruined buildings to avert threats of collapse and to glean scrap metal for munitions. Nearly every day fleets of trucks roll out of Arguelles with broken plumbing, heating apparatus, iron beds, stoves, steel furniture and kitchen pots and pans.

Build Barricades.

Little salvage can be taken from the areas west of the Manzanres for there are the 14-months-old siege and defense lines. There once palatial suburban homes provide lookout towers. Their windows and doors are barricaded with sandbags and their lower rooms often are precarious barracks for soldiers of the line.

Plans have been drawn to level these zones for peacetime reconstruction. In downtown Madrid some of the large office buildings are but dynamite-gutted shells Other buildings which have withstood siege in better style—including the telephone building, Madrid's highest—would have to have major repairs.

The war halted all government and private construction The partly completed new government buildings rising from the hippodrome in northern Madrid are just as they were in July, 1936, when the trade unionists dropped their trowels and took up rifles.

These buildings would be badly needed when and if the government returns from Barcelona to Madrid. Many of the older government buildings have been damaged by shells and bombs

The city's streets, too, must undergo major reconstruction. Hundreds of barricades—built of paving blocks—bar the way.

There has been tentative discussion of leaving some areas in their devastation as permanent souvenirs of the civil war but this has not been decided. Regardless of what is done, the tourist of the future will find ample reminders of the war in the underground refuges honey-combing every hill.

Science of Reproducing Pictures One of Most Fascinating of Arts

Story With Illustrations Leaves Nothing to Imagination.

Can you imagine books, magazines, or newspapers of today without the interest, the force and vitality which pictures impart?

The news of national concern, be it calamities, political, economic, or social springs to life, to action, in the papers because of pictures. Books of literature, travel and learning become more forceful, more descriptive, more helpful because of pictures. Magazines reach greater heights of entertainment. Advertised values are more effectively understood and appreciated — with the addition of pictures. A story with pictures leaves nothing untold.

So universal has the language of pictures become, that pictures are accepted by readers with but little thought given to the work and processes which make them possible. Yet, the science of reproducing pictures for printing is one of the most interesting and fascinating of the modern arts.

Plate making, or engraving as it is more generally termed, combines the gift of the artist with the science of the chemist. Couple these with the talents of a master mechanic and one has the factors which combine to make pictures in print possible

Because of the particular adaptness which photo engraving requires, few men find themselves qualified to enter this branch of industry. Because of the dearth of acceptable talent and because of the large investment in equipment and chemicals necessary to the art, few cities the size of Mansfield have photo-engraving numbered among its industries.

For the past nine years the Mansfield Photo Engraving company at 119 North Walnut street has been engaged in the making of plates for printing. The firm is well known to newspapers, printers, publishing houses and advertisers throughout a wide area. Its work is perhaps lesser known to the reading public. From Cliff Sherrard comes a cordial invitation for groups to visit this plant and to see the interesting work carried on. Study clubs, interested in arts and sciences, are welcome to detailed information concerning the process of making pictures for print—should they wish to select this as a topic for study.

CITES WEAKNESS IN AUTOMOBILE FINANCIAL RESPONSIBILITY LAW

It would hardly seem possible in these days that it should be necessary to convince a person that public liability and property damage insurance on an automobile is vital, George A. Davis, Mansfield insurance man says.

"Yet there are a large number of automobiles, both commercial and private, that are not covered because the owners would rather 'take a chance' Mr. Davis says.

"Ohio has a financial responsibility law but it has a glaring weakness in that it requires the owner to furnish evidence of financial responsibility — after he has had an accident—and only when he has been haled into court and had a judgment rendered against him.

"It is little satisfaction to the injured person or the one with a damaged car to know that they never will be compensated in any way for the accident, while the irresponsible party who was the cause of the mishap, may lose his right to drive for a year after which he will be free to do the same thing over."

Mr. Davis pointed out that while the present law may be better than none, it is a good deal like "locking the barn after the horse leaves."

From the motorist's standpoint, the fact that insurance or other evidence of financial responsibility is not demanded until after an accident, may seem to be in his favor, but that is not the case.

"Once a driver has been judged guilty of having been the cause of an accident, he finds it is difficult and costly for him to obtain an insurance policy and equally difficult to comply with other provisions of the law.

"Another thing that is often overlooked is that through insurance, time and disagreeable delays may be avoided, In every accident involving two cars, each driver is almost sure to blame the other. That is human nature.

"It may be that arrests may follow, trials and time wasted. This undoubtedly could have been avoided if the affair had been submitted to the unbiased investigation of an insurance adjustor. It's better to be insured than sorry."

Mr. Davis' office is located in the Bowers building.

A waffle special which includes waffles, syrup, butter, apple sauce, and bacon, ham, sausage, eggs or chicken, together with a beverage, is served from 6 a. m. to 9 p. m. daily at the Diner.
